INTERESTING and strange news concerns the axe with which Chancellor Hitler's 67-year-old headsman cuts off women's heads. He puts the blade of his axe on ice, keeping it at the freezing point, just before the head-chopping moment arrives. This will surprise Americans that have always dipped their razors in hot water to make them sharper.

Steel contracts when cold, perhaps that makes the axe blade narrower at the edge, and sharper.

The edge of a razor seen under the microscope is said to be like a saw, with teeth so small they are invisible to the eye. Hot water, in expanding the razor blade, might spread the saw-teeth apart, and make them cut better. Some physicist will tell all about it.

The Hitler headsman, after striking the blow, leaves the axe-blade buried in the block, pressing against the woman's neck for a few moments, closing the great blood vessels, making the beheading less bloody and unpleasant.

Two men will be the next customers for the old headsman's axe.

The Baroness Von Falkenhayn Von Berg, whose head was cut off on Monday morning, was buried in the aristocratic Kaiser Wilhelm Cemetery. Six members of her family stood around the grave praying as the coffin was lowered. It must have been hard for them, the women especially, to realize that she was lying in her coffin before them, with her head cut from her body.

Those whose religious faith assured them that the body would rise again might even wonder whether the scar would show.

President Roosevelt asks Congress to continue NRA for two years more. Everybody will be satisfied if two more years prove to be enough. It is to be hoped that the new NRA regulations to be suggested by the Senate after investigation will deal mainly with telling various agencies how to spend public money, interfering as little as possible with a man's right to run his business.

Until you have Americans running business in their own way and hiring workers in the old way, with reasonable regulations as to minimum pay and maximum hours, you won't have any old-fashioned American prosperity.

If a cat should look at King George tomorrow or next day, he might see a nervous King, twisting around in his outer garments.

Queen Mary, who went to the British Industries Fair, was much taken with a display of heavy woolen underwear. She sent a good supply to her husband, telling the salesman, "I think the King will like them."

The hearts of many American husbands will go out to King George.

If the human race is no stronger than its weakest link, it is feeble.

Pennsylvania tells of a hex doctor or "witch doctor," brought in to break a spell and bring a devil out of a small boy that had slashed his eight-months-old baby brother with a penknife.

The witch doctor came, went through the pow-wow, mumbling a ritual, said, with the cured by faith, leave him alone with the baby."

The credulous parents left them alone, and the boy slashed his little brother's head with a butcher knife, instead of a penknife. The baby may recover.

There are something fewer than two thousand million human beings on earth, and when you realize that more than half of them believe in vile superstition of the "witch doctor" kind, you know that the human race has a long way to travel.

New York's Legislature proposes to tax pilots a few dollars a year and airplanes $200 a year. Quite frank about the matter, politicians who want a little ready cash, say the idea would be to appoint a commission to inspect airplanes, and use the fund paid by pilots and on planes to pay their salaries. Governor Lehman will probably find a way to stop that particular nonsense.

Mayor LaGuardia, of New York, has just failed in a public-spirited effort to get a first-class flying field close to New York city, where the greater part of aviation traffic, passengers and mails originate. This invention of a tax system, which would discourage New York's aviation entirely, is a new form of idiocy.

In the little village church of Muel, Spain, four unknown paintings by Goya have been discovered.

This is a great deal more important than discovering chests full of gold in some ancient Spanish galleon. The world will produce plenty of gold, but will never produce another Goya.

SISTERS DIE FOR LOVE; LEAP FROM AIRPLANE

$40,000,000 for Merrimack Jobs

YEAR'S Work for 8000

CURLEY PLAN IS APPROVED

Governor Curley was notified by Washington today that the federal government has definitely decided on a $40,000,000 grant for his proposed Merrimack River valley sanitation and improvement project.

He estimated that the project will provide work for 8000 for a year or more, besides speeding up the basic industries with demand for materials.

The prospect was one of those included in Governor Curley's public works program for which he asked 100 per cent federal financing in the amount of $200,000,000.

May Assure Program

It is the first in the list approved and, in the governor's opinion, its approval augers well for the rest of the program which has been held up pending action in Congress on President Roosevelt's four billion dollar bill.

It is expected that approximately $10,000,000 of the grant for the Merrimack project will be spent in New Hampshire.

Governor Curley intended the good news to New Hampshire Governor H. Styles Bridges. They arranged to meet with their sanitation engineers and health department heads at the State House here at 10 o'clock Saturday morning.

"I have the biggest news to come out of the State House since I took office," Governor Curley told assembled newspapermen at a noon meeting.

"You will recall that the proposal submitted by me to Washington for a 100 per cent federal grant of $250,000,000 included $30,000,000 for Merrimack Valley improvements in Massachusetts and $12,000,000 for the New Hampshire end of that improvement.

"Mr. Richard O. Marsh, representing Secretary Ickes, has just informed me that he has decided to spend $40,000,000 on the project.

"That means new sewers and sanitation, prevention of river pollution and soil erosion, restocking of fish in streams where pollution has killed them, and possibly work and housing developments along the river."

The "Isolation" Myth

ONE of the most persistent and most constantly reiterated arguments in favor of the United States joining the World Court and the League of Nations is that it is time for us "to emerge from our splendid isolation."

This is as good a time as any to smash this myth of our isolation.

AMERICA HAS NEVER BEEN ISOLATED. On the contrary, since her foundation she has been an AMIABLE SUCKER for the rest of the world.

Today, as always, we are no more isolated than a COMMON DOORMAT, on which the European deferred-payments sharpers and floating-debt confidence sharks have wiped their feet.

On the contrary, the third defeat of the World Court and the vigorous thumbs-down on the Woodrow Wilson League of Nations in the election of 1920 meant that we desire to draw down the curtains of our house for a while to enjoy a little privacy.

Splendid isolation!

WHY, we have been the PUBLIC ARCADE of the human race for one hundred and fifty years.

We have been the walnuts and wine of every

McSWEENEY PLANS CLEANUP OF CITY

Clear out all vice—in dens and on streets.

That, it was learned by the Boston Evening American today, will be the first order of Police Commissioner Eugene M. McSweeney, when he takes office Saturday.

It will mean history-making raids, a scurrying of cruising cars through shady sections and, if necessary, the drafting of day policemen to work Saturday night.

Concentration is planned in the North, West and South Ends. The order will specifically cite sections of Tremont street, Columbus avenue and other parts of the Back Bay and the South End.

Although he is not yet in office, McSweeney summoned Superintendent Martin H. King and the four deputy superintendents for a conference this afternoon.

It was learned that he sought first-hand reports from Deputies James F. McDevitt, William W. Livingston, James R. Claflin and John M. Anderson on conditions in their districts.

Strong reports were current, also, that Deputy Claflin—choice of Governor Curley's political opponents for superintendent—was soon to be returned to his former rank of captain.

The big happening in the change of administration, however, was the drive planned for Saturday night.

That chartered clubs, narcotic havens and all other resorts of illegal ventures are due for upward was indicated also by today's activities in the department.

A force of clerks worked feverishly at headquarters to compile a list and all information concerning the clubs.

Unknown to the new commissioner, but within 35 feet of his office, a representative of the Watch and Ward Society was discovered in conference today.

He is Jeff Davis, for 41 years a member of the society. Davis was in conference with Lieutenant James Hinchey, head of Commissioner Leonard's "incorruptible squad" under Deputy Superintendent James McDevitt.

Veterans at police headquarters expressed satisfaction with their new "boss." They predicted more action than they had ever seen before.

I have recently toured the Ukraine district of Soviet Russia, where 6,000,000 peasants have perished from starvation in the past eighteen months, due to the excessive tolls made on their crops by the Bolshevik government.

Last Winter, Red Army soldiers, under orders from Moscow took so much of the season's crops from the peasants that they were unable to feed themselves and their livestock through the winter.

Photographs accompanying this series of articles were taken at great risk, and brought out of Russia in my pockets. Fortunately, I was not searched. I threw away a valuable camera before coming to the border, so as not to arouse the suspicions of the Russian customs

Starving, this Russian father snatched a few grains of wheat, left behind by reapers on a Soviet farm. Red soldiers shot him down without warning, before the eyes of his son. ## PLUNGE Arm in Arm TO DEATH

DAUGHTERS OF BOSTON WOMAN

By International News Service

Upminster, Eng., Feb. 21—Grief-stricken over the loss of their fiances in a British Royal Air Force crash which took nine lives a week ago, Jane and Elizabeth du Bois, beautiful daughters of the American consul in Naples, leaped arm in arm to their death from a Paris-bound airplane today.

Leaving behind them letters to their parents and servants, the sisters forced open the door a short while after the plane took off from Abridge.

The pilot did not learn of their disappearance until the plane was over the English Channel, when he turned around to tell them they were safely through a thunderstorm.

Mother From Boston

Engagement of the wealthy and popular San Francisco girls whose mother is the former Margaret Meadell of Boston, Mass., did not become known until after the tragedy in which they apparently chose to die as nearly as possible as their violent-fancied bridegroom had died.

June, 29, was engaged to Flying Officer John Alexander Forbes, while Elizabeth, who, by many Flight Lieutenant Henry Longfield Beatty, half-brother of Admiral David Beatty, hero of Jutland.

The Evening News tonight published a report that Jane was already married.

The News quoted the woman manager of an apartment house in London where the sisters once lived.

"I understand Jane Du Bois was married," the woman told the News. "She wore a wedding ring, although she never before spoke of her husband and she always used her single name."

Both men were killed when a Royal Air Force flying boat, one of four en route from Singapore to London, crashed in flames on a Sicilian hillside last Friday.

Nine men lost their lives in the disaster, all the bodies being burned beyond recognition.

The sisters left Naples for a visit to London last Saturday.

They were apparently in fair spirits at first, but during the last two days had given way to deep depression.

Officials of the fashionable Ritz Hotel in London, where they stayed, told of finding them in hysterics on several occasions.

"The girls were frequently seen in the company of the two flying officers in lively dining and dancing.

Ride and Dine

On the evening before the flying boat left, they went for an automobile drive together to Rainhill, where the four had dinner.

A few hours later, the two girls said farewell to their fiances and a short while after that they sailed for England. The Messina crash occurred while their ship was still in sight of Italy.

Evidence that the sisters' last

COLE Defies Curley IN OUSTER

General Charles H. Cole has defied Governor Curley in the matter of the proposed ousting of Lawrence J. Brennahan, racing commission assistant secretary.

The insurrection informant, it was learned from a reliable source in the governor today, has delivered the ultimatum that he will militar discharge Brennahan nor permit him to resign.

Brennahan, in order to rescue Cole from a difficult situation, offered to resign after the governor had ordered him retired or removed.

Held in Dope Case

Charged with selling narcotics, Anthony DiGrazi of Marberry avenue, Medford, and Alexander Fox of Auburn street, West End, were held in $10,00 each today by Federal Commissioner Edwin C. Jenney for a hearing on Feb. 28. Both pleaded not guilty.

MILK Price Jump Due IN NEW ORDER

An instrument to tie Boston milk prices increasing the price to producers by 25 cents per 100 pounds, or approximately one-half cent a quart, was signed by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace today.

A full cent increase in retail milk prices loomed for Boston consumers as a result of this amendment, while Brennahan, in order to reduce the Massachusetts milk control board, which regulates Springfield, Worcester, Lawrence, Lowell and secondary markets, considered action on demands for increased returns from producers serving the State-controlled markets.

The temporary half-cent increase will benefit farmers in Massachusetts, Vermont, New Hampshire and Maine.

GIRLS IN PLANE DEATH PLUNGE

Grief-Stricken

Thoughts were of the two men whose wives they were to be was seen in a snatch of conversation overheard at the airport just before the girls boarded the plane.

"Darling," Jane said to her sister, "wouldn't John love to be with us?"

The girls flew out to death alone for, aside from the airplane's pilot, there was no other person on the eight-passenger ship.

The Misses Du Bois had reserved and paid for every seat in the plane, apparently in order to be by themselves on the Channel crossing.

Force Open Door

The pretty sisters plunged to their doom after they asked the pilot to close the door between cockpit and cabin and pull the blinds on the windows. Then they forced open a side-door while his back was turned to them.

Their bodies hurtled to earth in view of scores of watchers, landing with a terrific impact in the soft soil of a cabbage field.

They were found a short while later, horribly mangled, their fur coats and luxurious clothing torn, but arms still tightly locked together.

Letters Found

The plane's pilot, J. Kirton, did not notice their disappearance until an hour later when he was well out over the channel.

Scotland Yard detectives were immediately sent out from London on the case for several sealed letters were found on one of the seats in the plane after the horrified Kirton took it back to Romford airport.

Officials described the dual deaths as the strangest air tragedy in Europe since Capt. Alfred Loewenstein, the famous Belgian financier, disappeared July 4, 1928, from a cabin plane over the English channel.

Two of the letters were addressed to the girls' parents. Others were addressed to family servants.

The bodies landed in a cabbage patch, close to the edge of town.

The impact drove them a foot into the soft soil.

The plane was operated by the Hillman Saloon Coaches and Airways, Ltd., which runs passenger services from Romford to Paris.

Jane and Elizabeth telephoned the airways in London yesterday and booked the entire plane to Paris, giving a number of fictitious names as their supposed companions on the flight.

When they arrived at the airport alone, they told officials their companions would be unable to accompany them and insisted upon paying for all the seats in the plane.

John White, resident of Upminster who saw the girls drop from the plane as he was driving along a local road, rushed to the cabbage field.

He found the bodies had penetrated almost a foot in the soft, moist earth.

Inspection of the plane immediately after Kirton returned to the Stapleford air field at Abridge disclosed one shoe beneath a chair. The others were believed to have been torn off during the girls' hurtling plunge to earth.

Joseph Collins of Upminster, one of the score who saw the bodies fall, told how the two remained locked arm in arm from the moment they left the plane until they hit the earth.

"The bodies fell like two pieces of paper fluttering to earth," he said. "I could plainly see them clasped arm in arm as though in a final embrace."

Head Buried

"One body struck the earth head first and was buried nearly a foot. It was terribly mutilated. The other girl's body was not so badly mangled, but we found her neck was broken."

Elizabeth wore a brown fur coat and an attractive jumper suit with a blouse and a green mixture and gray woolen skirt. Jane wore a fawn jumper and skirt beneath her expensive coat.

George Ovenden, a carpenter, said the girls' bodies narrowly missed a scaffolding surrounding a newly-built house.

"I thought I heard a cry and then a thump as the bodies hit the ground," he said.

CCC SHOE Order Placed

With a low bid of $2.465 per pair, an army contract for 106,656 pairs of service shoes to replace issues to CCC workers in New England was awarded today to the Brown Shoe Company, Inc., of St. Louis.

Major Charles Wuhroff, commanding officer of the Boston quartermaster's depot, made the award from the bids of nine firms, three in New England.

Paul Prelack, 15, acted as a one-man rescue squad in a fire which filled the two-family dwelling at 23-25 Foster street, Belmont, with smoke early today.

It was he who smelled the smoke. He roused his family, his father, mother and nine-year-old brother. Then he rushed upstairs to rescue the Dyer children.

The 18-month-old twins he carried out himself, and led the other children, and a nurse girl to safety.

Damage was estimated at $1000. During the firefighting, Edward F. Crowley, of Ladder 1, was cut on the arm, and required treatment at Cambridge Hospital.

Girls 'Terribly Upset' On Stay at London Hotel

By International News Service

London, Feb. 21—Jane and Elizabeth Du Bois, pretty daughters of a wealthy American diplomat, who leaped to death from an airplane today, were "terribly upset" during the latter part of their stay in London.

The manager of the Ritz Hotel, where they lived while here on this trip, described them as follows:

"They were beautiful girls and deeply attached to one another.

"For the last day or two they seemed terribly upset, crying rather hysterically, but they told no one of the nature of their trouble."

At the West End service flat where the sisters lived for several months last summer, all information was refused pending completion of the inquest.

It was learned, however, that both sisters were extremely "air-minded," doing most of their traveling by plane. They were members of the Royal Cinque Ports Aero Club, which they visited frequently last year.

Franklin C. Gowen, of the United States consulate here, motored to Upminster this afternoon and formally identified the bodies. An inquest is scheduled for next week.

The London Evening Standard reported the girls' father was stunned when he received the news in the consulate in Naples. The Standard telephoned the consulate, where a member of the staff said:

"The consul general was out when Du Bois arrived. We had a terrible task breaking it to him when he returned."

Du Bois Kin Here Grieve; Aunt Scoffs at Suicide

Their grandmother, Mrs. Seth Mendell, and Mrs. Mary M. White, sister of the girls' mother, were besieged with sympathizers at their palatial home, 18 Hunnewell circle, Newton.

Mrs. White is the wife of Francis P. White, connected with the Boston Consolidated Gas Company. She scoffed at theories of suicide.

"It couldn't be suicide. It just couldn't.

"Why, the girls had everything to live for. They were inseparable.

"They were extremely happy. They were well educated. They had their whole lives before them.

"It must be one of those inexplicable tragedies that no one will ever be able to solve. No one will ever make me believe that those girls committed suicide."

Mrs. Mendell last saw her grandchildren five years ago. They visited her at her summer estate in Santa Barbara, Cal.

Mrs. White said the girls had been traveling in Europe and other countries since they were six and eight years old. Jane was 22 and Elizabeth 24, she said.

After breaking the news to her mother, Mrs. White said she barred all visitors to the elderly woman for fear of injuring her health. Mrs. Mendell was deeply affected by the tragedy.

Mrs. Du Bois, mother of the girls, lived at Kendall Green, Weston, when she was wed to Du Bois August 2, 1910.

Records at the town hall in Weston show they were married at Lincoln by the Rev. Henry C. Cunningham of St. Ann's Church, Lincoln.

At that time the mother made her home in Weston. Their father was then connected with forestry. He gave his address as San Francisco, Cal.

Mrs. DuBois was a graduate of Smith College in 1904.

Mendell was president of Perry, Mason & Company, publishers of the Youths' Companion. Later he became treasurer and a member of the board of directors.

He belonged to many clubs, including the Twentieth Century, Oakley Country Club, West Golf Club and Base Rocks Golf Club.

The girls' father is Coert Du Bois, a native of Hudson, N. Y. His diplomatic career dates back to 1919, when he was assigned to Paris as consul after many years with the United States forestry service in California and elsewhere.

When Du Bois went to war in 1917 he left the two girls and their mother in the Hudson home.

Du Bois' sisters, aunts of the girls, are Mrs. Fred Almstead of Palo Alto, Calif.; Mrs. Allen Campbell of Bronxville, N. Y., and Miss Rachael Du Bois of Boston.

He first went to Naples in 1920, and after being transferred to Fort Said and back to Washington as chief of the visa office of the state department, he returned to Naples in 1931.

DuBois held the rank of major with the A. E. F. in the World War.

The Dubois home is in San Francisco.

By International News Service

London, Feb. 21—The suicide leap of Jane and Elizabeth DuBois, daughters of an American diplomat, today recalled the mysterious death of Alfred Loewenstein, multi-millionaire Belgian financier, in 1928.

Loewenstein boarded his private plane at Croydon airdrome early in 1928. Mid-way across the English channel enroute to Brussels, the pilot noticed his employer was missing.

Loewenstein's body was picked up out of the water some time later by fishermen.

How 'Rendezvous' Was Kept

The artist's diagram shows how Elizabeth and Jane Du-Bois, daughters of a former Boston woman, jumped from a soaring airplane in England today to keep a "death rendezvous" with their fiances, two Royal Flying Corps officers who were killed in a plane crash, February 15. The suicide leap taken by the girls was from a height of 1500 feet.

MOTHER Overcome by TRAGEDY

By Associated Press

Naples, Feb. 21.—Mrs. Coert Du Bois, wife of the United States consul general and mother of the two girls killed in a plunge from an airplane today in England, was overcome today when informed of the deaths of her daughters.

She said Elizabeth, 23 years old, and Jane, 20, had gone to Paris last Saturday and had planned to go to London later.

Mr. and Mrs. Du Bois' home in the United States is in San Francisco but the family has lived abroad in the service of the United States for a number of years.

Both Jane and Elizabeth were beautiful girls and among the most popular members of Italo-American society here. Friends said that both appeared to be in excellent spirits when they last saw them.

CROOKER Out to Oust COLE

MAKES HIS PLEA TO CURLEY

To press his new demand for removal of the state racing commission, Conrad W. Crooker, attorney, appeared at Governor Curley's office today.

Crooker, who led the fight against appointment of the Cole-Ensign-Connor commission, said he appeared as counsel for the original pari-mutuel bill petitioners.

Protests over the dog track licenses, and the fact they were granted without notice of public hearing to those opposed, disqualified the commission, he said.

All Confusion

Walter O'Hara, owner of the Narragansett horse track and general manager of the group seeking a license for a Suffolk Downs horse track in East Boston, has no intention of actually operating a track in East Boston, Crooker declared.

Meanwhile, the whole racing situation—horse and dog—remained confused. No work has started on any track and the prospect of early spring racing in Massachusetts is being pushed farther into the background.

Justices of the Supreme judicial court will probably have to decide what's what in the dog racing controversy.

Even beyond the moot question of "home rule" for cities and towns affected, there was a bitter dispute over the Massachusetts statutes governing the issuance of licenses.

Attorney-General Paul A. Dever said it was his belief that licenses granted for tracks in Cambridge, South Boston and Methuen were valid.

Waves of Protest

The State House was inundated by waves of protest from the communities affected. Clergymen, business leaders and residents are complainants.

So intense was the feeling in West Springfield against a dog track there that 250 persons turned out to register opposition.

City Councilors John E. Kerrigan and George P. Donovan of South Boston claim that a statute, passed in 1836, reserved rights to local authorities to approve or disapprove of the location of race tracks within their area.

Today they called upon Corporation Counsel Henry E. Foley to apply for an injunction blocking the proposed establishment of a dog race track in Old Colony boulevard section, close to Mile road.

The "Isolation" Myth

We have been such a good mixer, we have a reputation for such innate clubbiness, that that splendiferous and prosperous representative of the Holy Proletariat, Ambassador Troyanovsky, only lately took his morning walk toward our State Department, popped in with a gay Tovarish! to Secretary Hull and laughingly OFFERED TO PAY US 100 MILLION DOLLARS ON THE RUSSIAN DEBT IF WE WOULD LEND RUSSIA THE 100 MILLION DOLLARS WITH WHICH TO DO IT.

But, happily, Secretary Hull felt an attack of splendid isolation coming on him that day, and in four minutes and two words he sent the Tovarish on his borrowing round and stripped our Moscow Embassy of a few unnecessary comrades.

Splendid isolation!

WHY, we have been the dumping ground of the professional malcontents of the whole world. Any "movement" in Europe immediately becomes a racket here.

We have been the Barren Island and the international garbage incinerating plant of Europe. This has been prettily called "the melting pot."

If it were not for the immigration laws enacted to "isolate" us for a while on our own home grounds this country would today be almost unrecognizable, ethnologically speaking. WE WOULD BE EURASIANS.

All the political heels of Europe have made the United States of America a soap-box, a CUSPIDOR and a CONSPIRATORS' DEN for one hundred and fifty years.

So little are we "isolated" today that laws have to be made to guard us against the menace of European isms and their subversive plotters on our own soil.

Communism, Fascism, Nazism are all European-grown. Our simplicity, our sociability, our happy-go-lucky nature have allowed these sappers and miners, these anti-democratic Jerry sneaks to spawn here to the extent that when one announces his adherence to American-democratic-individualistic-capitalistic doctrines, he feels like asking a Communist, a Nazist, a Fascist, IS MY FACE RED? —I AM ONLY AN AMERICAN!

Splendid isolation!

THERE hasn't been a cry for help in any part of the world since this government was founded that we have not been THE FIRST TO ANSWER THE SOS WITH MONEY AND FOOD.

We have been the open-handed, open-hearted philanthropist of humanity.

Starvation, famine, earthquake, pestilence—all have had their hands out to the U. S. A. And this FRIGHTFUL OLD ISOLATIONIST has answered to the tune of billions, using its Navy to help in the transportation of goods, men, women, money and Red Cross nurses.

Whether it was the potato-famine in Ireland, the pogrom of Kishineff (at which we "isolationists" officially protested), the starvation of Belgian or German babies or a Japanese earthquake—WE HAVE BEEN THERE.

When the World War broke out we fed the starving hordes of Europe—we "splendid isolationists."

When France and England were about to crack up under the flaying of the German armies we UNSOCIABLE AND SELFISH AMERICANS threw our youth into the breach to save them and bled ourselves white turning out our pockets.

Splendid isolation!

BILLIONS given away during the war, billions given away after the war to those very nations who now are trying to canoodle us on board their rotten old political and economic ships by hissing at us "Isolation!"

We gave Germany and the Allies the Dawes Plan and the Young Plan—we "isolationists!"

We have traded with all the world; we have more than any other country helped to feed the world in times of stress; we have fought, bled and died for European nations; we have been the asylum of the political refugees of the world; we have shelled out billions to keep the world on its feet; we have allowed the sewage and scum of political Europe to come here and blow their stinking breaths of mediaeval totalitarianism in our faces.

If this is "splendid isolation," then Gertrude Stein was the original of the Mona Lisa.

What we really are in need of is a long season of isolation to recover from the busybodies abroad and the traitorous chisellers at home.

If America ever DOES become a paragon of "splendid isolation," the rest of the world would die of grief—GRIEF OVER THE DEATH OF THE GOOSE THAT LAID THE GOLDEN EGG.

And that's what the European nations and their American allies mean when they taunt us with "splendid isolation." THEY FEAR MOTHER GOOSE AMERICA WILL NO LONGER HATCH THE GOLDEN BROOD.

CLUE on Gulesian FOUND

Seen Him?

Have you seen Moses H. Gulesian?
He is 71 years old;
Five feet, seven inches tall;
Has a dark complexion;
Was wearing a black overcoat, black and white scarf; black hat; navy blue suit and gray spats.

Police today sought a woman in a Boston suburb for questioning on a theory that the missing Moses H. Gulesian is a victim of kidnaping.

They also checked reports that the 71-year-old Newton realtor and art patron had been seen since he vanished after attending a University Club banquet Tuesday night.

Investigators said the woman vanished Tuesday afternoon, only a few hours before Gulesian was missed.

Investigators of the amnesia theory received a report from Gene Moore of 39 Hemenway street, Back Bay, that he thought he saw the missing realtor yesterday afternoon at Hemenway and Boylston streets, Back Bay.

A taxi driver reported that he drove a man answering his description to the vicinity of the state house today with another man and two women. Police Inspectators George Augusta and Joseph Decker were sent there.

Family Differ

None of the missing man's family, including his wife, the former Grace Warner, is willing to believe that Gulesian was kidnaped.

They said they preferred to believe he was suffering temporarily from amnesia.

At the same time however, it was pointed out that the missing realtor was carrying a pistol, Mrs. Gulesian said:

"Since the trouble a year ago when someone attempted to lure him to Albany he has carried the gun to protect himself.

"He would have been able to use it quite effectively if he had to. He always kept it close to him when he was at home."

Gulesian, evidence today, was in the best of spirits when he walked out of the University Club on Tuesday night at 9:30.

The Gulesian summer home in Falmouth was searched by state and town police there without result.

They were interested momentarily in the report of Victor Morris, manager of Loew's Orpheum Theater that Gulesian had applied for a $14 a week doorman's job.

BABY Not Lindy, Jr. IS CLAIM

3 POINTS BY EX-DEFENSE AID

By Associated Press

New York, Feb. 21—A former defence investigator said today counsel for Bruno Hauptmann had ignored evidence that the body in the murder case could not have been that of the Lindbergh baby.

Seven autopsy experts were ready to show, declared George H. Foster, that the body found five miles from Hopewell, N. J., and identified by Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh as that of his son in reality was:

(2) Decomposed more than would have been possible in the mild weather after the kidnaping, and

(3) Embalmed.

Foster is chief investigator for James M. Fawcett, who was replaced as Hauptmann's counsel before the trial.

His assertion came as the present defense staff prepared to gather in Trenton late today for a conference on their disagreement over appeal procedure.

This was understood to be due in part to the failure of Edward J. Reilly, chief counsel, to attack the state's identification of the body.

Seven Experts

Associated with Reilly are C. Lloyd Fisher, designated as Hauptmann's "chief of New Jersey counsel"; Frederick A. Pope and Egbert Rosecrans. Pope is said to side with Fisher, Rosecrans with Reilly.

Reilly asserted two days ago that "either Fisher or I will have to leave the case."

"We have neglected to take advantage of the most important point in the defense case," Fisher had said when Reilly did not challenge the corpus delicti. "Without warning to the rest of us, Reilly suddenly announced that Lindbergh should know the body of his own child and let it go at that," he said.

Data collected by Fawcett and his aides had been turned over by court order to the present defense attorneys.

Regarding these, Foster said:

"We had produced seven experts in autopsy work who were prepared to show that the body found was not that of the Lindbergh baby.

"Three of our experts are undertakers who had served the federal government during the war as autopsy experts.

"There were also three pathologists who are connected with large New York hospitals, and one other doctor who has known well in the autopsy field and who saw in the Trenton morgue the body described as the Lindbergh baby.

"We were going to challenge identification on three points, mainly:

"In the first place, the body found was 33½ inches long, whereas the Lindbergh baby was described at the time of the kidnaping as being only 29 inches.

"We would show that a body does not decompose readily at a temperature below 50 degrees Fahrenheit. Between March 1, 1932, when the baby disappeared, and May 12, when the body was discovered, the mean average temperature was less than 47 degrees.

"The doctor who saw the body in Trenton was prepared to testify that it had been embalmed and that this fact was recognized at the time by one of the attending state physicians.

JUDGES' Lobby Hit in HEARING

3 BILLS WOULD CURB JURISTS

"The judges' lobby is the strongest in the state."

This was the opinion of Representative Phillip G. Bowker of Brookline, who as a member of the special legislative Committee on Public Expenditures spent two years investigating district courts, expressed before the Committee on Judiciary today.

Representative Bowker said:

"There is no lobby in this State House stronger than the judges' lobby. The judges constitute a lobby that is stronger even than the school teachers' lobby. I do not think that their life tenure with responsibility has so much to do with it.

"I think the judicial lobby should be held up to public ridicule to stop its activities."

He was speaking on three bills prohibiting justices and special justices of district courts from practicing in their courts; judicial officers from acting as legislative counsel and agents for holding other remunerative offices, and increase of fees in the supreme and superior courts and establishing a jury fee.

He stated:

"The picture of a number of lower court justices adjoining court to come to the State House to lobby is not a pretty one."

There has been a loss of faith in the district court, he said.

The committee was urged to bar all justices from criminal court practice and stop all justices, special justices, clerks and assistant clerks of district courts from criminal and civil practice in their own courts. Representative Horace T. Cahill of Braintree and Francis W. Grinnell made the requests.

GOODWIN WARS On Bright Auto Light

X-Ray Reveals Killer's Needle Mania

The twisted mind which could plan the fiendish slaying of little Grace Budd—and, possibly, also of Francis McDonnell, Staten Island boy—now drives Albert H. Fish, confessed baby killer, to find perverted delight in torturing himself by thrusting pins and needles into his flesh. This X-Ray photograph, taken at a New York hospital where Fish's sanity is being tested, shows the sharp pointed shafts of metal embedded in his body. At the same time, Senator Huey Long (D.) of Louisiana showed up with a bandaged left hand. Newspaper men, who could add two and two, said:

So Huey was asked.

"Did you get that bandage by leading with your left to Bilbo's eye?"

"Oh, no," replied Long. "I've got a case of athlete's foot in my hand."

OUST TEACHERS WHO BACK REDS

New York, Feb. 21—Dr. Harold G. Campbell, superintendent of the public school system of New York City, warned today he will seek the removal of any teacher attempting "to teach to immature children doctrines which are subversive to our form of government."

His comment bore on the question of Communistic influence in schools. The Hearst papers have been carring on an aggressive campaign against such influences. He said:

"On appointment, all our teachers look an oath to support the Constitution. If any of them regret having done so and feel they no longer can support the Constitution, they may withdraw.

"We have no place in the public schools for any teacher or supervisor who does not give allegiance to the fundamental principles of the Constitution. The great majority of our teachers and supervisors support me in this position, I am sure.

"I am certain that only a very very small number of students may be called Communistic. They are in two or three schools. If they insist on bringing political activity into the school, they may not remain as students.

"Our Constitution and form of government are the best ever devised. The American schools and the opportunities they offer were made possible by this Constitution.

"This Constitution has been the means by which our country has provided, within a comparatively brief period of time, a higher standard of living for a greater number of people than any other Constitution or form of government in the history of the world.

"When I assumed office, I took an oath to support it. I would support it in any event because I believe in it."

BRUNO'S Death Stay May HOLD TO 1936

By Associated Press

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 21—The execution of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, convicted murderer of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., was stayed indefinitely at 12:15 p. m. today, when a certified copy of a writ of error was filed with the clerk of the State Prison.

Hauptmann had been sentenced to die the week of March 18.

Defense Counsel Frederick A. Pope and C. Lloyd Fisher presented the writ to Irving Bleam, the prison clerk, within an hour after they had filed the original writ with the clerk of the court of errors and appeals, the state's highest tribunal.

Argument on the writ will be heard either in the May or October term of the court. The defense has indicated it will seek to have the argument postponed until the latter date, which, with the time required for handing down the decision and the further possible appeal to the court of pardons, would delay the execution of the death sentence until some time early next year.

Pope filed the writ before going to a Trenton hotel for a conference of the defense attorneys, at which they hope to iron out long-standing differences. Edward J. Reilly, of Brooklyn, chief of the defense staff, C. Lloyd Fisher of Flemington, Egbert Rosecrans of Ellentown and Pope were to confer.

MRS. WHITFIELD ASKS DIVORCE

By C. KNICKERBOCKER
Universal Service Society Editor

New York, Feb. 21—Ahem!—By the time you read these lines Emily Davies Vanderbilt Whitfield will have started divorce proceedings against Raoul Whitfield, her third husband.

From what I hear, the individualistic Emily put the legal machinery in motion at Santa Fe., N. Mex., and it is doubtful that Raoul will place any obstacles in her way.

Emily, who is a daughter of Mrs. Horace Chase Stebbins, certainly has had bad luck when it comes to life-helpmates.

Some years back, she married William H. Vanderbilt, eldest son of the late Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt. Eventually a divorce ended their trials and tribulations and, as "Mrs. Davies Vanderbilt," Emily became one of the picturesque members of the social-intelligentsia.

While mingling with the aforementioned social-intelligentsia she met—and fell in love with—Sigourney Thayer.

The Thayer-Davies alliance was short-lived, and after a second divorce Emily resumed life as "Mrs. Davies Vanderbilt Thayer."

QUINTS Are "Bad GIRLS"

YOUNG IMPS, SAYS NURSE

Callander, Ont., Feb. 21 —The Dionne quintuplets are developing temperaments.

Cecile can't resist kicking water all over the bathroom when she has her daily tub, in a man-size bathtub.

Marie has a penchant for grabbing Annette's toys.

Yvonne likes to suck her pink big toe.

And Emilie has developed feminine vanity at an early age, cooing with delight as she surveys her big black eyes and curly eyelashes in the mirror.

"Pat" Mullen, their relief nurse, says fondly, while Annette pulls her hair:

Sometimes a spoonful of gruel lands across the room, and sometimes one of the famous little sisters misses her mouth and plasters an eye instead.

But the quintuplets are fast learning proper table manners.

Marie, the littlest of the five, has gained more than a pound and a half this month, and is pretty proud.

Annette, kicking in her crib can say:

"Da-da, Ma-ma!"

And all the nurses at the Dafoe hospital in the north woods are completely captivated by the antics of the healthy, active babies, though their Irish nurse says proudly:

"They're young imps!"

Hero Finds Job Chilly

JOHN QUILTY

"My name? Brr-rrh! I'll tell you after I get warm!" That was all the answer Haymarket Relief hospital attendants could get from this 50-year-old man, who leaped from a ferryboat into the harbor and was saved today by John Quilty, 17, of Marginal street, East Boston. Quilty also required treatment for chills following immersion. (Pictures by Boston Evening American Staff Photographer.)

BOY SAVES Man in HARBOR LEAP

In the sight of scores of passengers riding in the Boston side, an unidentified man about 50 years old leaped into the harbor today from an East Boston ferryboat.

Hardly had the man gone beneath the surface when John Quilty, 17, of 166 Marginal street, East Boston, another passenger, dived overboard in o the icy waters.

Quilty held the unidentified man until the crew of the ferryboat hauled both aboard.

The man and his rescuer were taken to the Haymarket Relief Hospital, where the man, in a semi-conscious condition, was unable to give his name. Quilty was also held and treated for immersion.

2 GIRLS Fail in Court to NAME GEOGAN

Plymouth, Feb. 21 — Two girl clerks in the Brockton treasurer's office failed today to identify Michael V. Geogan as one of three bandits who held up the office last autumn in a $12,742 robbery.

Trial of Geogan, charged with armed robbery and assault with intent to murder Patrolman George A. Perkins, guard in the office, had started all over again with a new jury.

The new jury foreman is William A. Armstrong, Plymouth selectman and son of the police chief in Marshfield.

Miss Doris Tripp and Miss Abbie A. Russell were the clerks who failed today to identify Geogan in court as one of the three bandits who posed as plumbers to gain entrance to the city treasurer's office.

The two clerks testified that one of the bandits thrust a revolver into the side of Miss Tripp, while a second bandit, with a policeman's riot gun, taken from a corner, covered them through the glass of the treasurer's office.

Miss Tripp said that the bandit who held the gun over her had "a nice soft voice."

Miss Russell gave a detailed account of the holdup.

"Mad Love" Kennamer's Final Plea

By International News Service

Courtroom, Pawnee, Okla., Feb. 21—"Uncontrollable love" brought 19-year-old Phil Kennamer to the shadow of the electric chair, one of his chief attorneys told a crowded courtroom today. The case went to the jury before noon.

The romantic son of Federal Judge Franklin E. Kennamer was so madly in love with beautiful Virginia Wilcox, a Tulsa multi-millionaire's daughter, he "sacrificed all" for her, Attorney C. B. Stuart told the rugged jury of farmers and workers.

It is the defense contention Phil pumped two bullets into the head of John Gorrell, Kansas City dental college student because Gorrell planned to kidnap the fair Virginia.

Stuart shook his finger at the jury and shouted:

"You must believe this poor boy's story that Gorrell stuck a gun in his face, that they struggled, Phil fighting to defend his own life and protect the woman he loved so madly."

HOW TO RELIEVE IT

Many people begin to look back on life when 40 rolls around. They worry. Notice they've lost "snap." Have headaches oftener — Feel "dizzy." Tired and low a lot. Are prone to stomach upsets. They think they're "growing old."

Not at all, usually. Scientists say the cause, in a great many cases, is only this: a tendency to an acid condition of the stomach, perhaps the result of faulty diet. Nothing more.

The thing to do is simply to neutralize excess stomach acids. When you have one of these acid stomach upsets, all you do is take Phillips' Milk of Magnesia after meals and before going to bed. Soon you feel like another person. Stomach calm. Fewer headaches. And the pep and energy you thought lost, comes back again!

Try this. Take either the familiar liquid "PHILLIPS'" or the new Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets, — convenient to take with you anywhere . . .

Also in Tablet Form: Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets are now on sale at all drug stores everywhere. Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

Alyce Guarded From Visitors To Prevent Colds, Grip

GIRL HAS BUSY DAYS BEING X-RAYED

Fall River, Feb. 21—Doctors attending Alyce Jane McHenry, the "sunshine girl" from Omaha, who in a week or so will undergo a rare and delicate operation for diaphragmatic hernia, today made public an official ban on sympathetic and well-meaning visitors.

Since she arrived at Truesdale Hospital early in the week to prepare for the operation which Dr. Philemon E. Truesdale, will perform to correct her topsy-turvy stomach, the smiling, 10-year-old girl has been the object of national interest.

Her room is filled with flowers and she has received hundreds of letters from all parts of the country—from persons who don't know her but want to wish her well. Numerous callers have gone to the hospital to see her, but even Mayor and Mrs. Alexander C. Murray, who called yesterday, did not see the child beaus sh was too busy bing X-rayed.

In issuing the bulletin barring visitors, Drs. George C. King and Cornelius H. Hawes said:

"Although appreciative of the interest of the general public in our patient, Alyce Jane McHenry, we know it is absolutely necessary for her to be in the best possible physical condition for the serious operation. Therefore, we must continue to insist that Alyce have no visitors.

"This precaution is taken because of the possibility of exposure to colds, grip or other infections which would postpone the operation."

The doctors said Alyce Jane had a "very uncomfortable period" last evening which was more severe than the attacks of distress to which she has been subject. Alyce is subject to coughing spells.

This morning, however, her condition was described as satisfactory. She had a relaxed sleep during the night and was refreshed and gay despite the prospect of more "picture taking."

So she had to call off a visit she was expecting from four-year-old Armand Martel of Fall River. He is another upside down stomach victim, but he was cured by an operation similar to the one planned for this little girl.

But even if Alyce had the time to see him, Armand could not make the visit. It was learned today that the boy recently had measles and has not fully recovered.

An attack of measles, from which little Armand Martel of Fall River has not yet recovered fully, indefinitely postponed a visit the boy had hoped to make to the bedside of 10-year-old Alyce Jane McHenry, "upside down" stomach victim, awaiting an operation at the Truesdale Hospital, Fall River. Besides, Alyce is too busy being X-rayed. Armand, himself once had an "upside down" stomach, but surgery remedied his condition.

CURLEY Reception on HOLIDAY

HEADS LIST OF FESTIVITIES

Starting with memorial masses at 9 o'clock, practically every hour tomorrow will hold some event in memory of the birth of George Washington, 263 years ago.

The feature of the day will be the annual Governor's reception at the Hall of Flags at the State House.

As thousands of visitors pass through the reception line the governor, with his daughter, Miss Mary Curley, at his side, will shake hands with them all.

Military and semi-military organizations, however, will relieve some of the handshaking strain by giving him a salute, a slight deviation from the custom.

Practically every patriotic organization, civic group and military outfit will hold some sort of observance.

They range from simple religious memories to pretentious balls and banquets. Most of the larger hotels will be the scenes of dances given by various societies.

Mayor Mansfield will place a wreath on the statue of Washington at the Arlington street end of the Public Gardens, make a brief speech and then pay his respects to the governor.

A public program will be given for more than two hours at Faneuil Hall during the middle of the day. It will start at 11:45 and continue through 2 o'clock.

NEW GIFTS By Big Donors BOOST DRIVE

Reports from the metropolitan division, coupled with new subscriptions from the neighborhood and industry and finance divisions, brought the total of the $4,000,000 drive of the Emergency Relief Campaign to $2,711,487.85 today.

Notable gains have been made among the larger givers through resolicitation by a group of prominent business men, again pressed into campaign service by Oscar Haussermann, general chairman.

An interesting gift of $3.29 worth of cowrie shells, used as money in Tahiti, came from that far-off island today with an added gift of $16.50 in cash. The donor is a former Bostonian.

DEAD Man Lives AGAIN

HEART VICTIM NOW NORMAL

Tyler, Tex., Feb. 21—Life that apparently left him for five minutes returned slowly today to 71-year-old W. A. Strang.

Dr. Howard Bryant, who revived the former Smith County sheriff by injecting adrenalin into a stilled heart after he had folded his patient's hands in "death," said Strang's chances for complete recovery were good.

The patient weakened slightly early today as he lay in an oxygen tent, but attendants were hopeful of recovery.

"I sure was gone that time, doctor," Strang told Dr. Bryant after he had been survived. "I don't know how you did it."

He has not spoken since.

Dr. Bryant, who termed the case "extremely rare," said Strang came to his office yesterday, apparently suffering from coronary occlusion.

"He was placed on an examining table and given stimulants, but his condition became worse. He stopped breathing and his heart stopped.

"I told his wife he was dead and she called an undertaker.

Dr. Bryant said he decided to try adrenalin.

"His heart began to beat. He began to breathe lightly. His oxygen was forced into his lungs from a gas machine. His color picked up and soon he appeared to be much better."

Swapped Wife Bares Details of Gay Parties

MATE DENIES ANY CASH IN LOVE TRADE

By Associated Press

Los Angeles, Feb. 21—The courtroom of Judge Ben Lindsey offered a big attraction for divorce court fans today with prospects of further amazing revelations in the tangled love affairs of two ultra-sophisticated Beverly Hills couples.

Stories of alleged all night "wife-swapping" affairs, gay beach parties and "surprise" visits by one of the husbands have been told in the case before Judge Lindsey, himself of marriage problem fame.

One quadrangular-marital mixup case was started when Walter Emerson, actor-writer, sued Jane Scholtz Emerson, former Denver socialite, for divorce, and named his former close friend, Barton Sewell, wealthy yachtsman.

Mrs. Emerson fired back, seeking $250 a month alimony, custody of the three Emerson children, and naming Mrs. Sewell as co-respondent. Mrs. Sewell's answer was a denial of all allegations.

Mrs. Emerson yesterday calmly described asserted intimacies over a long period of time with Sewell—affairs which she declared were agreeable to her husband.

"Go ahead and live your life as you wish; I'll do the same," Mrs. Emerson said her husband told her.

Asked if she told her husband on the occasion of each meeting with Sewell, Mrs. Emerson replied:

"Not in so many words—one

MRS. JANE EMERSON
She Tells of Gay Party

doesn't do that, you know. But he knew."

Milton Cohen, Emerson's attorney, quizzed her at length concerning an alleged beach party last November. She said her husband became sleepy early that night and laid down on a bed. Then:

"Mrs. Sewell went over and laid down beside him. Mr. Sewell and I went to bed in an adjoining room.

"In the morning the two men talked to each other through the open door."

Emerson, under cross-examination, was asked:

"Didn't you tell your wife you'd willingly step out of the picture if Sewell would finance a trip to China for you and set you up in business?"

Emerson vigorously denied this.

"There was never a hint of money in all this," Emerson exclaimed.

GOLD Seen Next ELECTION ISSUE

By Associated Press

Washington, Feb. 21—With the administration telling former President Hoover indirectly that it was "satisfied" with its monetary policies, gold today was thrust forward as a potential issue for the next presidential election.

Many highly-placed Republicans, in and out of Congress, supported Hoover's advocacy in Arizona yesterday of a return to the gold standard, but independents of that party and Democrats in general cried, "Impossible, fantastic."

Speaker Byrns told newsmen it would be "natural" for some persons to assume that the Hoover declaration was a "campaign statement."

Secretary Morgenthau spoke for the administration at his press conference:

"I am perfectly satisfied with the way our monetary policy has worked out during the last year and see no reason for changing it."

Quick support came to Mr. Hoover from such party stalwarts as Senators Dickson of Iowa and Hastings of Delaware, both contending a return to gold would restore confidence.

8000 ALL SET For Elevator Strike

New York, Feb. 21 (INS)—With a resumption of the strike of elevator operators in the garment, fur and millinery districts of Manhattan threatened, operators in 8000 Bronx apartment houses and office buildings prepared to leave their jobs this afternoon in an effort to force realty men to meet demands.

Some 800 shop stewards of the union last night voted to call the operators from their jobs at 2 p. m. The situation endangers the truce effected by Mayor La Guardia two days ago.

RIEL GIRL Hunt Shifts TO FLORIDA

By Associated Press

Worcester, Feb. 21—The possibility that Miss Etta Riel, 20, missing Oxford girl, may be in Florida was being investigated from New York city today by State Detective Edward J. McCarthy and Patrolman Albert Sheehan of the Grafton barracks of the state police.

The officers went to New York after learning in Putnam, Ct., yesterday that a Putnam man had sent a request to friends in the latter town for sufficient funds to take him and a companion to Florida.

About a week before she disappeared, say police, Miss Riel received a letter from the Putnam man who later went to New York and thence to Florida.

He is now a dancer in a Tampa night club. Miss Riel disappeared November 22.

NEEDLED BEER Hit by Sawyer

Needled beer in night clubs is the cause of drunkeness among young girls and boys, Representative Roland D. Sawyer of Ware told the Legislative legal committee arguing for a reduction in alcoholic content of beer from 12 to 7 per cent.

He said that no brewery made beer above 7 per cent. Retail package dealers and grocery men with package licenses clashed on a bill which would require grocerymen to have separate stores for liquor. Fifty groserymen opposed the bill with as many package dealers in favor.

JOY STREET IN New Police Drive

A new move was started today to replace the old Joy street police station, consolidated with Division 1, in the North End, by former Commissioner Hultman.

Circulars were distributed by the Andrew Jackson Club of Ward 3, calling for support. Attorney George J. Leary of Temple street, West End, president of the club, who led the fight against consolidation, took issue with a ruling of Corporation Counsel Henry Foley that the Joy street station had been abandoned by the police.

HUSBAND TAKES Jail in Marital Row

Rather than post a $500 bond to keep the peace with his wife, Charles E. Simonin, 48, of Dennemore street, Atlantic, went to jail for three months today.

Arraigned in Quincy court on a charge that he had threatened his wife with a hammer last night, Simonin was found guilty. Placed on probation and offered his freedom on the peace bond, he said:

"I'd rather go to jail."

So to jail he went on a previous suspended sentence.

FORD SALES Boom, Says Lyons

Gerry E. Lyons, general sales manager of the New England Ford division, announced that "the sales volume in New England is booming with a steady demand for all models of Ford cars and trucks, greatly beyond all expectations."

The 1935 Ford V-8 clutch, providing a smoother driving strat; easier disengagement and silent gear shifting has added the demand, according to Lyons.

Walter Huston Sought For Leading Role

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor Universal Service.
(Copyright, 1935, by Universal Service.)

Los Angeles, Feb. 21—If Sol Lesser comes right out and speaks the truth in his saga of the movies to be called "Celluloid," he will have one of the greatest pictures ever produced. But if he doesn't give facts and sacrifices some of the real romance his picture won't be worth a darn. Sol Lesser is making a cinema history from the birth of the cinema to the present day.

The main character will naturally be a producer and Walter Huston is being asked to portray a composite picture of Carl Laemmle, Sr., Adolph Zukor, Lewis Selznick, George Kleine and all the rest of the pioneers. Rupert Hughes, also a pioneer, is writing the adaptation from an original idea by Edward F. Cline and Mr. Lesser, and if all goes well the picture will go into production May 1.

Louella O. Parsons

The one infallible rule in the movies is that one good picture begets at least five others. Warners made a swell box office hit with "Devil Dogs of the Air," and since that time every company in Hollywood has an air story up its sleeve. Universal will do "Storm Over the Andes," by Elliott Gibbon and La Clade Christy. Chester Morris and Binnie Barnes will have the leads, and an interesting feature of Universal's air thriller is that Maurice Pivar, for 20 years in charge of Universal's editorial department, will make his debut as a producer.

Adrienne Ames came back to Hollywood with fifteen new gowns, which she is waiting to wear. Maybe she will get her chance in "The Secret Lover," opposite Gilbert Roland, Paul Kelly and Mona Barrie, a little number being made for the Fox Company. Speaking of Gilbert, he is the most enthusiastic attendant at the Santa Anita track. Last Saturday he was at the races with little Peter Bennett, son of Constance Bennett. Peter, aged five, picked out a winner.

Eric Von Stroheim will break into print on the 17th of March with his new book, "Paprika," published by MacAuley. It's the story of high society life in Hungary and Eric has hopes one of the film companies will buy it for the screen. And if they do who knows but he may be called upon to act in or direct it. I am not so sure about the directing but he could be very helpful in furnishing ideas for the production, provided, of course, it clicks.

Chatter in Hollywood: Bing Crosby, who is now wearing an owner's badge of the Santa Anita races, took Buddy Robertson and Sonny Workman, two of the best known jockeys, to the Pat O'Brien cocktail party. The two jockeys were thrilled at meeting all the movie crowd, but not one whit more thrilled than were some of the movie folk who had seen the two lads ride to victory many times and who wanted to hear from their own lips their track experiences. "Who will win the Santa Anita Handicap?" one of the stars asked Workman. "My horse, I hope," answered Sonny Workman, "Equipoise."

Snapshots of Hollywood

Four hundred reservations for the Mayfair dance on Saturday; the list is now closed, so those who forgot to speak up are out of luck; just everyone will be there; the HAL ROACH table including all the socialites here for the Derby, as well as the filmites who own nags, now up to 110; GEORGE KAUFMAN, author of "Merrily We Roll Along," at the opening of his play in Los Angeles; IRENE FRANKLIN received a big hand for her riotous performance; EDDIE HILLMAN entertaining with a buffet supper in honor of his house guests, the ERWIN TYRELL MARTINS of Santa Barbara; COLLEEN MOORE hostess for the Martins on Sunday at a cocktail party; PINKY TOMLIN ("Object of My Affections" fame) dining out with VIRGINIA BRUCE; Pinky is Hollywood's pet protege; W. C. FIELDS' biography, with the swell title of "I Am Laughing," is now being written by JIM TULLY and FRANK SCULLY; MARGOT GRAHAME'S dog, Janey, isn't speaking to other canines; GARBO stopped, patted her on the head and said "Nice dog"; GRETA should see my Pat and Peg, the two best Boston bulls in Hollywood; CAROLE LOMBARD getting rid of her flu at La Quinta; that's all today. See you tomorrow!

Choir Returns

Vienna Boys' Program

The Vienna Choir Boys, the oldest organization of its kind in the world, will appear under the auspices of Aaron Richmond at Jordan Hall next Tuesday and Wednesday evening, February 26 and 27.

On Tuesday evening they will present a program of songs and Schubert's one-act operetta, "A Song from Old Vienna." On Wednesday evening "Bastien and Bastienne," by Mozart, together with two groups of songs, comprise the program.

The Choir—called the Vienna Saengerknaben, has been in continuous existence since 1498, when it was founded by the Emperor Maximilian. It is restricted to boys between the ages of 8 and 12, who live and study in the old Hofburg, once the imperial palace of the Hapsburgs.

Gregor Piatigorsky will appear as soloist tomorrow afternoon and Saturday evening with the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

The celebrated Russian cellist will bring to its first public performance Nicolai Berezgowsky's "Concerto Lirico," and will also play the 'cello part of Strauss' tone poem, "Don Quixote."

The opening number on the program will be by the orchestral Concerto of Philip Emanuel Bach.

Gala Holiday Bills

A holiday week of gala shows opens today at Boston's first run movie and vaudeville houses.

Celebrating its third anniversary, the Paramount Theatre presents "All the King's Horses," screen musical romance with Carl Brisson and Mary Ellis in the leading roles, and Edward Everett Horton and Katherine De Mille heading the supporting cast.

On the same program, also billed at the Fenway, is "The White Cockatoo," with Ricardo Cortes and Jean Muir.

The final week of the Keith Memorial Jubilee brings Irene Beasley, radio songbird, as the star of the big stage show. Vic Oliver, Cass, Mack, Owen and Topsy, and Eddie South's Orchestra are others who will open up tomorrow's jubilee show.

Mitzi Green in person heads tomorrow's new program at the Metropolitan, which features on the screen Rudy Vallee in Warner Brothers' "Sweet Music." Ann Dvorak and Allen White are featured in the cast, and the third feature of the Met bill is "Live, Laugh and Love," with a cast of Broadway favorites.

New Films

Hauptmann in New Hearst Films

Bruno Richard Hauptmann's journey to the Trenton death house, and a vigorous talk by the Navy's fighting Commander Rosendahl of the Macon, are features of the current edition of Hearst Metrotone News, now on the screen at Loew's State and Orpheum.

Hauptmann in a statement for the sound camera, denies his guilt, and expresses confidence that his appeal for a new trial will be granted.

Survivors of the Macon are shown at San Francisco, and Commander Rosendahl urges the United States not to abandon dirigibles.

Edwin C. Hill, as the Globe Trotter, describes these interesting news events, and also tells of impending war conditions in Italy, bobsledding in Maine.

HOLLAND Gibbons Had Idea Like 'De Luxe' Theme

By GEORGE HOLLAND

The Ritz bar in Paris, which is reproduced quite faithfully in "De Luxe" (I hear), was known in my day to its American habitues as "the steam room."

Since the day in 1929 when Floyd Gibbons came to me with a proposal that we collaborate on a play called "The Steam Room," with the one setting an exact replica of the Ritz bar, I have been waiting for a play about Americans in the fashionable section of Paris. Well, "De Luxe" is it.

George Holland

Mr. Gibbons' attack on this background was concentrated on some American expatriates he had known quite well in his days as a boulevadier—long before radio made him internationally famous.

He was fascinated with a set of characters, mostly beautiful girls, who bore titles by marriage. He thought it funny, and it certainly was, to show his friends before an audience with, as they say in Hollywood, "their hair down."

A duchess and a countess discussing their problems in flippant Broadwayese, the jargon the gals found most natural because their service in American musical comedies, would make for a comical scene. Floyd had a plot outlined, incidentally, which included a few gigolos in the foreground. He will be an interested member of the audience, I presume, when "De Luxe" has its New York premiere, and not as a potential litigant.

Being a scribbler, Mr. Gibbons knows that workable ideas often strike more than one writing-brain at a time.

"The Curtain Falls," by Joseph Verner Reed of Andover and Yale, is about to be placed on sale in the bookstalls. Mr. Reed arrived on Broadway with a large fortune and began the production of plays in association with Kenneth McGowan.

Mary Ellis, Jane Cowl, Winthrop Ames, Brock Pemberton, Arthur Hopkins are pictured as Mr. Reed found them, and the book is absorbing to anyone interested in the problems of the theater.

The poor stagehands and union labor generally come off quite badly in "The Curtain Falls."

Guide to New Books

BY MILES ALDEN

THE SCARLET BEAST—By Francis Gerard—Longmans, Green.

Since Flaubert whote "Salammbo," it is hardly conceivable that a later author should attempt to weave a romance out of garish fabric of the Punic wars.

Gerald, however, was unable to resist the temptation of Hannibal's story. He has turned out a passing fair piece of fiction, but in comparison with the French masterpiece it sinks to something less than insignificance.

Here is all the color of Carthage and all the venom of the Barca family's hate of Rome. Here are battle, death, rape, pillage and human sacrifice spread over a far greater stage than Flaubert's. Here, too, is the eventual Roman triumph. But the whole thing is draped over a trite and hackneyed love story. And the style is none too good.

It would have been a first-rate entertainment had not Flaubert dipped the scene in his magic first. Better read the Frenchman. If you have time left, try this weaker wine.

SALUTE TO THE GODS—By Sir Malcolm Campbell—Putnam.

Sir Malcolm Campbell holds the world's automobile speed record at 272.463 miles an hour. In fact, that is why he was knighted. And that is also a good reason why he should write this mystery story of the Grand Prix race courses of Europe.

As a mere mystery thriller, this story is better than the average, but Sir Malcolm's description of a driver's sensations as his car hurtles along at more than 200 miles the hour puts it in a class by itself.

In three successive races the driver of an English team meets death. The builder's tests prove to his complete satisfaction that the cars were not at fault. His surviving drivers are loyal to him. The mystery is finally solved by the girl who is in love with one of these drivers—how is for you to read.

Second Voltaire Lecture

"Voltaire the Dramatist," second in the series of lectures by Dr. Edward Howard Griggs, will be held at Tremont Temple Saturday morning at 11 o'clock.

An authority on affairs of the 18th century, Dr. Griggs is presenting a series of six talks on the literary and political aspects of Voltaire's time, to be given on consecutive Saturday mornings.

UNCORKS STUFFY NOSES IN 5 SECONDS

Doctors Recommending Extract Of Chinese Plant

When you have a head cold, thousands of tiny blood vessels in your nose swell up, choke off breathing and cork up your nostrils as tight as a bottle. You can't sleep well and it makes you feel miserable. But now—you can get relief in 5 quick seconds.

Thousands of years ago, Chinese medicine men discovered that one of their plants possessed almost magical powers in relieving nose and throat conditions. Today, after endless experiments, modern science has found a way to extract from this plant its most active ingredient, called Ephedrine. And, now, you and every other sufferer of head colds can get the wonderful benefits of Ephedrine in a scientific compound called Hill's Nose Drops.

In five seconds Hill's Nose Drops start to shrink swollen blood vessels in the nose. As they contract, passages open, mucus drains off and breathing is made easier. Now you understand why ordinary preparations that merely "oil" your nose cannot give the same relief. They don't hit at the real cause of clogged passages . . . nasal congestions. So, if you want "5 second relief" from head colds or the spasms of asthma or bronchitis, get a bottle of Hill's Nose Drops today. At all druggists. 35¢.

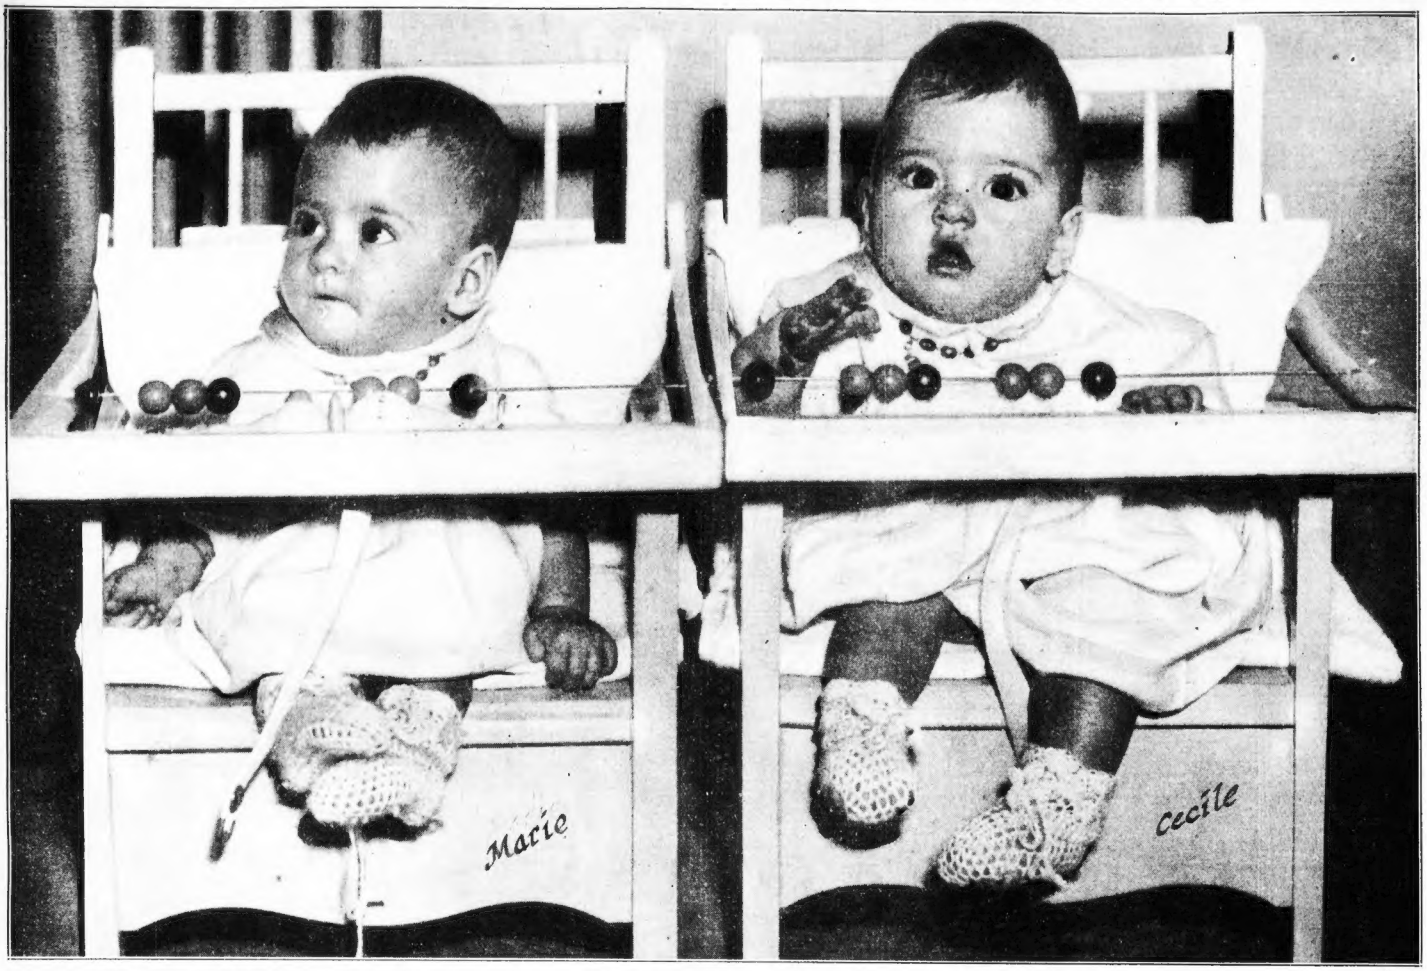
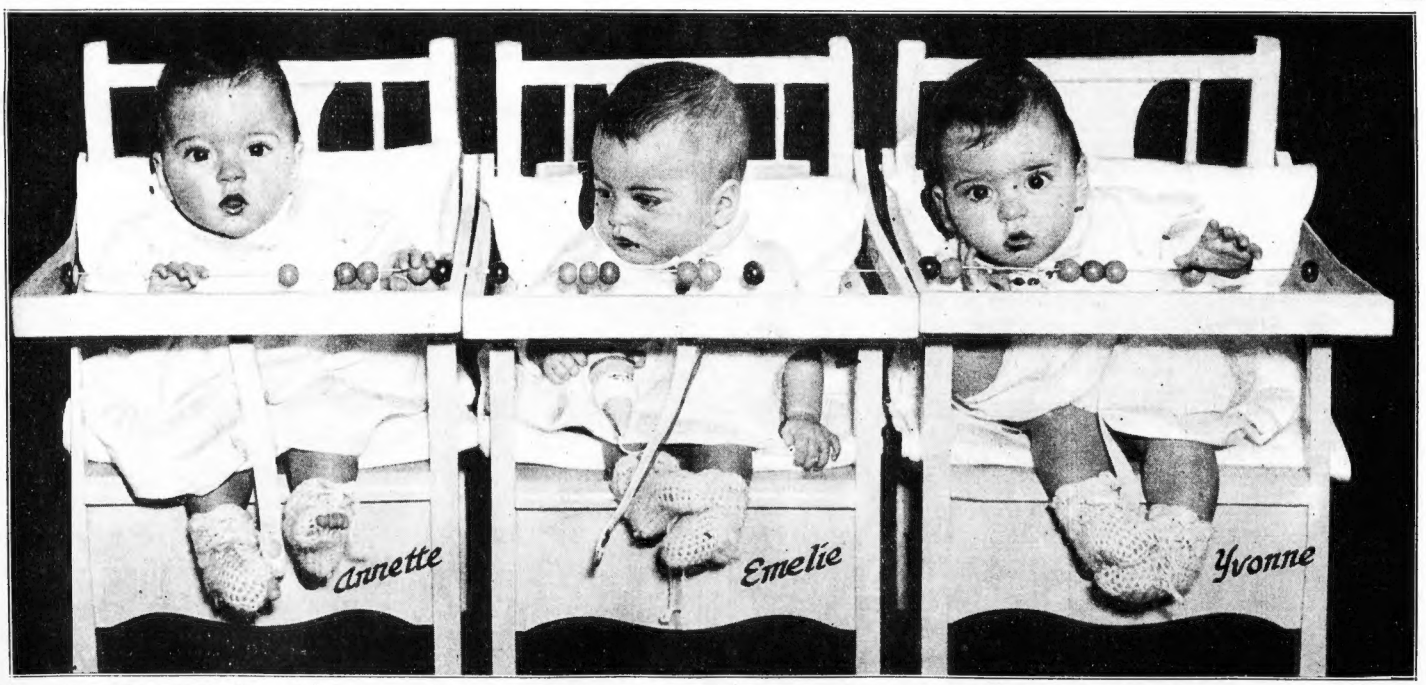
"QUINS" STUDY WORLD FROM HIGH CHAIR VANTAGE POINT





Sit up and take notice? Well, you'd better believe so! Marie, Cecile, Annette Emelie and Yvonne Dionne have their individual high chairs now and can survey this extraordinary, ever-expanding world from a brand new and thrilling vantage point. "How'm I doing?" Marie seems to be asking with those saucer eyes of hers. Cecile, open-mouthed, pokes a chubby, exploring fist toward the cameraman. Annette's active pink toes have already found their way through her knitted booteen. Emelie, of a scientific trend of mind, appears to be concentrating on the mystery of the movements of the colored marbles on the wire. And Yvonne, the coquette, has chin on hand in a pose which says, clear as words, "Just a minute, there, mister!" They are growing fast, these quintuplets. Growing fast physically—and mentally! Just take another, longer look at the five alert, expressive faces. They are evidence of the old-new miracle of human development. Short months ago, the "quins" were as alike as so many helpless, squirming kittens. Now they are real persons, thinking their own thoughts, reacting in their own ways to their environment.

Morning Musicale Committee Guests at Luncheon

By BETTY ALDEN

THOUGH THIS late February season, with its lull in social activities, may seem dull and empty to those of us who stay at home, the social calendar of those who have journeyed to winter resorts continues to be crowded with interesting events . . .

Most especially the social calendar of Mr. E. T. Stotesbury, who has found that events are coming upon him in such rapid sequence that time and geography do not permit his being present at all of them . . . At his villa at Palm Beach, last week, he received an invitation to the wedding in New York of his stepson to Doris Duke, and now he has a problem on his hands because he would like to come to Hamilton for the marriage on Saturday of his grandson, John K. Mitchell, Jr., to Susanna Minturn, and yet all his friends in Palm Beach are looking forward to the annual celebration there of his birthday on the 26th . . .

MRS. DEVENS HAMLEN

Mr. and Mrs. Devens Hamlen are taking a rest from their business pursuits while they are basking in Florida sunlight . . . Modeling in an exclusive gown shop occupies most of Mrs. Hamlen's spare time when she is in Boston . . .

Mrs. Royden Loring has gone over to New York to see what her friends there are doing for excitement, and Mrs. James Dean has just returned from a visit in that city . . .

Mrs. Myers Hostess

WHEN MRS. FREDERICK P. BAGLEY returns from a visit in Stockbridge today, she will find that her beautiful Beacon street apartment has been the scene of a pre-spring luncheon, which her daughter, Mrs. John W. Myers of Dedham, gave yesterday for the committee of the Boston Morning Musicales, of which she is chairman . . .

The pots of bright yellow daffodils and vases of tall snapdragon will be the only evidences left of the party . . . The many bridge tables, with their exquisite cut work luncheon cloths and napkins, the fine floral china and heavy silver coffee service will all have been put back into their particular niches . . .

Mrs. H. Parker Whittington, wearing a navy blue dress and hat, with a vestee of green, red and blue plaid silk, presided at the table where the four new members of the committee were the guests of honor . . .

New Members Greeted

THE COMMITTEE of the Morning Musicales, whose success is the envy of other enterprising groups organized in the name of charity, is large and competent but, as Mrs. Whittington explained in introducing the new members, there comes a time when new and fresh interests and ideas are welcomed so it is the policy of the executive board to choose several additional members each year . . .

Mrs. Harry Hayward, Mrs. Frank Cheever Nichols, in black with a wide brimmed velvet hat, Mrs. Charles F. Sprague, wearing violet blue with a raspberry scarf, and Mrs. Horace S. Frazer, were greeted with applause as they were introduced, but each one waived the privilege of giving a ten-minute initiation speech as suggested by Mrs. Whittington . . .

Mrs. Harold McNeil and her sister, Mrs. Walter A. Carl, joined a group which included Mrs. Thomas M. Claflin, wearing an Oxford gray woolen dress, Mrs. Hatherly Foster, Jr., in brown, Mrs. Charles T. Gilbert in black with dusty pink collar and cuffs, and Mrs. Winthrop S. Jameson, to enjoy their luncheon . . .

Mrs. Alvan T. Fuller, Mrs. Matthew J. Whittall and Mrs. H. Addington Bruce chose a table by the window and Mrs. Eliot Spalding with Mrs. Harry B. Duane had a perfect view of the river from their table . . .

Wears Gown of Dark Red

PALE BLUE TRIMMED the black dress of Mrs. Lawrence Black who knitted industriously between courses . . . Pretty Mrs. John Hoar, who in her quiet way is responsible for much of the success of the musicales, wore a dark red woolen dress with a matching hat . . .

Wisteria with grey accessories was the color scheme chosen by Mrs. John D. Adams and the plum color of Mrs. John A. Green's ensemble was another bright spot among the predominance of black dresses . . .

If the guests profit by Mrs. A. Barr Comstock's "pep" talk, business men will have to beware of the forceful sales arguments they will be receiving soon from these attractive women who will soon be bent on filling next year's program with advertising . . .

Only travels afar would keep the members of this exclusive group from attending any of the committee meetings and with the exception of seven who are away, every member answered the roll call . . .

Mrs. Channing M. Wells, Mrs. Henry M. Shreve, Miss Harriet Robeson and Mrs. George W. Knowlton, Jr., are in California . . . Mrs. Paul Reed's thoughts undoubtedly were with her fellow committee members as she watched the surf at Miami, Mrs. Frederick B. Holder is far away in Egypt and Mrs. Albert M. Kales in Mexico is probably anxious to hear what artists have been engaged for next year's concert program . . .

In spite of having served nearly 75, Mrs. Myers managed to find enough luncheon for Mrs. Homer Albers, who arrived just as the party was breaking up . . . Hunters' green with black Persian lamb fashioned the attractive suit of Mrs. Albers . . .

After weeks of intense deliberation, Mrs. Myers and her associates have definitely arranged the program for next season, which will offer to Boston audience recitals by eight of the greatest stars of the musical world . . .

Horses are [illegible] Soviet Russia feeds them [illegible] when men, women and [illegible] starve. But [illegible] famine stalks abroad, [illegible] Feeble owners of these animals begged grain and water for them [illegible] guarding a "model" farm. ### Shot in Back

A father and son had been busy picking up these grains of wheat when apparently the father came too close to the prohibited territory to suit a Red soldier and was promptly shot in the back by a guard without warning and left to die where he fell (Picture 3). The son was in tears when photographed.

Both father and son were employed on this farm at the time of the murder, and were picking up wheat to augment their daily supply of one pound of bread which they received for their labor.

Neither had received any salary, the boy stated, and he had not tasted any meat in many months.

These peasants stated that they had been at the Collective Farm several days previous and had begged the officials for some wheat straw to feed the horses and to be allowed to fill their water barrels. Both requests were refused, and they were ordered away from the farm at the point of revolvers.

"Yet, what these officers of government do is not one-tenth of what the teachers of America do in teaching our children. If they are allowed to place subversive ideas in the thoughts of our children, God help America!"

Newspapers, he said, must criticize public officials and others when criticism is due, even if it means loss of [illegible] Moreover, he said they must dig for the real news and not accept official [illegible] or prepared statements.

Nazi War on Russia Looms in New Reports

By Associated Press

[illegible], Feb. 21. The official organs of Soviet opinion upbraided Germany today with accusations of plans for aggression in both Eastern and Central Europe.

On the heels of the approval of the London agreements extended by Maxim Litvinoff, commissar of foreign affairs, on the condition they are made effective in their entirety, the authoritative press pictured the Nazis as hungry for war under the disguise of "diplomatic chattering."

General display was given charges by the Czecho[illegible] newspaper Narodni [illegible] that Japan, Germany and Poland were preparing for war against the Soviet Union.

"German Fascism," said Pravda, "is getting ready to occupy east and Central Europe in order to prepare for war on the western front.

"SHOOT!"
Everett Order TO POLICEMEN

"Shoot to kill!"

That was the orders of Mayor James A. Roche of Everett today in challenge to gangsters who tried to kill a member of the police raiding squad Tuesday night.

The mayor aimed his order at all crime. He added:

"Everett must and will be rid of all vice and underworld operations."

Referring to the reserve escape of Special Officer James O'Donnell, who missed death by only half an inch when a bullet crashed through his hat, the mayor declared:

"The people of Everett demand protection and safety of their persons and property.

"The attack on Officer O'Donnell from ambush was most cowardly and dastardly. It is a challenge to the police.

"I now issue orders to every member of the police to shoot to kill, and spare no one who attempts to commit crime feloniously."

NRA LIFE At Stake in FIGHT
SECTION 7-A STIRS FOES

By Associated Press

Washington, Feb. 21—President Roosevelt's recommendation for a two-year extension of NRA headed today straight into a legislative situation bearing all the signs of bitter controversy.

Observers wondered whether the fights would be over before June, when the present recovery act expires.

Arrayed for the skirmishing were the forces of industry, union labor and those who accuse NRA of fostering "monopoly." They were all ready to press their demands.

There was no doubt at all in the minds of legislators that one of the fiercest struggles probably would rage around Section 7-A—the collective bargaining provision. They noted that President Roosevelt simply called for protection of "the rights of employes freely to organize for the purpose of collective bargaining" and did not disclose whether he desires the section changed or continued.

Senator Wagner (D.) of New York, who holds that the recovery act has failed to gain some of the ends expected of it, planned to introduce today his revised labor disputes bill. There have been reports it would provide majority rule in collective bargaining, a principle vigorously opposed by many industrialists, and would seek to prohibit what labor leaders call "company unions."

Wagner has been hoping the administration would back his bill. So far as known, such support has not been forthcoming.

Donald Richberg, director of the National Emergency Council, said revision of Section 7-A was a matter entirely for Congress to decide but expressed the opinion the section was adequate.

Another labor union drive has important bearing on the NRA problems of maximum hours. The American Federation of Labor and others are striving to obtain enactment of Senator Black's 30-hour week bill, fought by industrial and business leaders and frowned upon by high administration officials.

The Senate Finance committee, which will draft the bill for the new NRA, expects to make an investigation into the Blue Eagle.

PRESIDENT LAUDS RUSHMORE VICTOR

Wins $1000 for Essay

By KENNETH M. ELLIS

Washington, Feb. 21—Exactly one year from the time he consented to become chairman of the national committee of award for the Mt. Rushmore national inscription competition, sponsored by the Boston Evening American and associated Hearst newspapers, President Roosevelt today made public the finding of that committee—and announced that John Edward Bradley, of Altadena, California, is winner of the first prize—$1000 in cash and a two day trip to Washington.

[illegible]

"I am delighted with the decision of the committee and I see no reason why its recommendations cannot be accepted. I congratulate Mr. Bradley as the winner of the first prize, as well as the others selected to receive the final awards. It is pleasing to know that almost one million Americans participated in this competition and thereby evidenced a keen personal interest in our national achievements."

[illegible]

Borglum Proud

[illegible]

"I am more than delighted to know that the committee has at last completed the arduous task of sifting the 817,000 texts which were written by participants from coast to coast. Mr. Hearst and his newspapers are certainly to be congratulated for this stupendous achievement in a journalistic competition, as are each of the individual winners.

"It is my hope that I may be in Washington during the two days in which the winners will visit the capital so that I may meet them personally. It is a matter of small moment whether their effort is actually to be carved on the mountain or not.

Patriotic Effort

"The chief value is in the spirit of patriotic effort represented in their writing. Certainly from some parts of the splendid texts submitted, we hope to find material which will be carved to last 100,000 years on the slope of Mt. Rushmore."

[illegible]

Other Winners

[illegible]

It is a marvelous hope for the future of the nation, which is held out to the American people by this competition sponsored by Mr. Hearst and his newspapers.

The commission congratulates Mr. Hearst, his newspapers, and the participants, and thanks the members of the committee for their painstaking and careful sifting of this phenomenal number of texts."

Seth Parker Towed Into Port

By Associated Press

Tutuila, American Samoa, Feb. 21—With bedraggled sailing gear flapping from her masts and her pumps working continuously, the American schooner Seth Parker anchored at Pago-Pago today.

The little sailing ship, whose distress calls 10 days ago echoed around the world and brought the third son of King George to her aid aboard H. M. S. Australia, was towed into port by the U. S. Naval Tug Ontario.

Although not badly damaged the craft on which Phillips Lord, master and down east radio character known as Seth Parker, hoped to sail around the world, was a sorry sight.

All of her masts were still standing but one or two spars had been torn away, her jib sail was ripped to ribbons and minor pieces of rigging were torn loose.

What will be done with the Seth Parker was not known. Lord said he did not plan to return to the United States.

HOOVER Sees Recovery on GOLD RETURN

By Associated Press

Tucson, Ariz., Feb. 21—Smashing his self-established precedent of silence as a "private citizens," former President Herbert Hoover urges re-establishment of the gold standard to "restore confidence in our currency" as a needed contribution to "real recovery."

"If the dollar were made convertible at the present 59 cents of gold," he said in a prepared statement here last night, "it would tend to check inflation, replace relief with real employment and contribute materially to general recovery."

In his comment on the supreme court's gold clause decision Mr. Hoover broke his consistent policy of refusing to express his opinion upon political matters, a policy he began when he left the presidency March 4, 1933.

THEBAUD RACE To Cost $10,000

RABBIT MARANVILLE REGAINS SPEED

RUNS FROM HOME TO 1ST IN 4 SECS.

'I'll Play in 140 Games This Year for Tribe,' Says Maranville

By Joe Cashman

"Think I can play? I know it. I've been playing in a cage for the past three weeks and I've had to stop and think which leg I broke. The old left limb is as good as it ever was. I've put it to every baseball test and the result in ecery instance was 100 per cent perfect.

"I recently had myself timed on a run from the home plate to first base, and I did it in four seconds flat. Just two-fifths of a second behind my fastest time, 20 years ago.

"After a few spring drills, I'll regain that fraction of a second in speed and be my old self again.

"I expect to play 140 games or more this season. Why not? Life begins at 40, and I'm only 41. Just an infant."

That asserted the inimitable Walter "Rabbit" Maranville, as he settled himself into a seat at Braves' headquarters at the Copley-Plaza today after a trip from his Rochester, N. Y., home. He'll remain until Saturday, to get his bit towards shaping the Tribe's pre-season ball-playing.

It was about three weeks ago that the midget star broke up an exhibition game at Spring Hill [illegible] he tripped on the diamond. And the same little gnarled member is strong as ever.

Up to that time, he was handicaped by a sore knot in the ankle.

"And way he had been so confident of staging a comeback while the leg was in bad shape and couldn't, and he didn't have a chance [illegible] again, he [illegible] back!

"Because I broke my right leg some years ago and learned then that after a broken limb heals it is stronger than ever. Players aren't stopped by bone fractures. If they don't come back after a break, their trouble is purely mental. And I knew I'd never worry about the leg or favor it in any way after it set.

"My only regret is that the clamps which were placed on the leg to keep the bones together after the fourth operation weren't put there after the first operation in St. Pete. If they had been, I would have played last season."

Rabbit will speak at Brockton tonight. His schedule for the rest of his [illegible] been arranged yet. He'll be motoring south with Mgr. Maranville next Tuesday.

"I'm down to playing weight of 145 pounds right now. A few workouts, which will end the necessity of the daily leg massage I now get and I'll be all set to shatter Honus Wagner's game record," was his parting shot as he went into conference with Judge Fuchs.

RELEASE

DOUBTFUL SAYS GREAT HITTER

By Bill Corum

New York, Feb. 21—We had a long telephone conversation with a famous Babe, and, if you are curious about such things, this is the way it went:

Our end—Hello, is This Home Run 65868?

Their end (a lady's voice)—That's right.

Our end—We'd like to speak to Babe, please

Their end—Who will I say is calling?

Our end—Bill Corum of the Journal

Their end—Just a minute Mr Corum

A brief wait

Their end (a booming man's voice this time)—Hello, kid, how's tricks?

Our end—Welcome home, George I thought you'd be speaking Japanese

Their end—You don't speak Jap, you getch. Ha, ha, ha, har, har!

Our end—Well, I saw by the papers that you went pretty big over there What are you going to do now?

Their end—I'm going huntin'

Our end—Will you be seeing Jake Colonel Jacob Ruppert, all of us millionaires call one another by our first names like that) before you go?

Their end—That all depends

Our end—Depends on what, you or Jake?

Their end—Both, I guess.

BABE, CURLEY

Our end—I'm surprised at your coming back here in the first place Don't you know I wrote a story sending you to Boston while you were gone?

Their end—Yeah, I heard about that in Japan

Our end—Well, I had lunch with Judge Fuchs in Boston Sunday and he told me the Braves still would make you an offer if the American League would grant waivers on you.

Their end—Yeah, but when? But when? Now's the time

Our end—You're right, but Judge Fuchs doesn't want to be put in the position of dickering with a player that belongs to another club and another League

Their end—Could he get me out of the American League, especially since they've got a rival team there, the Red Sox?

Our end—If the Yankees were willing to let you go and you could get satisfactory terms and wanted to go, I don't see how they could stop you

Joe began with, I don't think Tom Yawkey's that sort of fellow He's your friend personally, but he has appointed Lou Maranville since he knew you were available, and he paid a quarter of a million dollars for the last one he found

If it ever came out in the papers that the Red Sox had blocked your going to the Braves, provided always that you wanted them and they wanted you, I think you could shoot a cannon through Fenway Park at a Sunday double header and not hit anybody except Frank Stevenson's peanut vendors

Their end—Yeah, but nobody has talked to me about the Braves

Our end—Oh, yes, they have Curley talked to you

Their end—He hasn't got any thing to do with the club He sides, we only talked for a few minutes, until both of us left the conversation up in the air

Our end—Still, he's governor of Massachusetts He's friendly with Judge Fuchs He's a Braves rooter

He'd like to see you come back to Boston When he talked to you, both of you knew he wasn't talking just to make conversation

What I am trying to find out is what you want and are planning to do

Their end—I don't know. It's all mixed up I don't know whether the Yanks would let me go as a playing manager, whether the rest of the American League would waive on me, or whether I could play or not, even if I did sign a player's contract with some team

He went on [illegible] the most [illegible] George Herman Ruth [illegible] known as Babe, hung up the receiver.

Polo Leaders To Clash

One of the most exciting polo matches of the season is scheduled for Saturday night at Commonwealth Armory, when the 110th Cavalry Dragoons, Class A leaders of the Boston Indoor Polo League, meet the second place team, White Mountain Polo Ranch, in a six-chukker fray.

This game will be the feature of a triple-header program with Harvard junior varsity meeting Medford Rambler's in Class B and Harvard freshmen taking on Battery A in Class C.

The Dragoons have won four straight. If they are to be upset it seems that the W. M. P. H.'s the only team carrying enough [illegible] do it this season.

Joe Jerwa Is Class Of Can-Am Defensemen

COULD MAKE BIG TIME GRADE UNDER MAN LIKE BOUCHER

By Bill Grimes

Although he kept his own counsel on [illegible] Joe Jerwa apparently resented the slight whereby he was not taken up by the Bruins when Bert McInenly was forced out of the lin[illegible]

During the Cub-Arrow game in Philadelphia, Joe scored both of the Jayvees' goals . . . Joe is the class of the Canadian-American League defense men . . . In fact there are a number of defense men drawing down major league salaries, or, at least, identified with the N. H. L. who are fortified with far less all-around ability than Joe Jerwa.

Joe came East with a fine reputation as a big league prospect but he also brought with him the title of 'Bad Man' . . . He was marked from his first appearance in the N. H. L. and, not being a type who takes it without retaliating, he was soon in bad repute and sent down to Springfield by the Rangers. After another tryout with the Rangers, Joe was traded to the Bruins for Dutch Gainer and sent to the Cubs before he had an opportunity to get the feeling of his new surroundings.

Under a manager like Buck Boucher, Joe could make the big league grade He's outspoken and independent but, despite the fact that he growls, raves and demands his little say-so when sufficiently riled, Joe is a real scrapper. When things are going to suit him there's no player in hockey more entertaining.

But for the comedy turn, add to Jean Baptiste Pusher and Joe Jerwa [illegible] position of the Cubs would be among the contenders for the Canadian title by seven points . . . And by the way, Mons. Pusher will [illegible] the Olympic Crescent Hand [illegible] game next Monday night at the Arena. Whether he officiates in French or English will not be known till he goes into action.

Where Eddie will receive a warm welcome from the fans tonight when he appears in the Quebec Beaver lineup at the Arena . . . Since joining Manager Albert Leduc Eddie has been one of Quebec's favorites . . . He has always been a great pay maker, and apparently, he has lost none of his cleverness . . . Another Beaver who will be remembered by the Cub fans is Tommy Filmore who recently joined the Quebec outfit, after spending part of the winter in Florida . . . The Beavers have beaten the Cubs five times in eight starts . . . Leo Howley, the pride of lower Jackson square, in East Weymouth, is sunning himself at West Palm Beach, Fla., getting in shape for the coming play offs . . . It was the flopping of the Detroit Red Wings that decided Leo to join brother Dan in the South.

Braves Desert Snow Drifts For Florida

TOMORROW IS FRIDAY. By Saturday afternoon those who are traveling South to winter training with the Braves will be passing through the red gumbo soil of Georgia Last season's dry stubble will be standing in the fields

Swayback cabins with pickaninnies playing in the dooryard will drift by Mule teams held by melancholy black men will be watching from the cross roads.

Late Saturday evening the Braves will fetch the turpentine swamps the Blackjacks of Florida those ostrich long-stemmed pines whose gnarled arms are [illegible] the brackish jungles and strive to grow highest to grab the most sunlight

An [illegible] that land with black water holes and tangles of palmetto and saw grass where cottonmouths, copperheads, moccasins and diamond back rattlers lead a free, unhampered life

There will [illegible] razor backs hogs lean and savage, root for tender sprouts.

Early Sunday morning, before he shed folks are astir, the Braves will be in St. Petersburg where the honey-colored warmth of the winter sun will bounce off the buildings against their cheeks.

Pink azalea flaming red hibiscus and white orange blossoms will throw off their lazy perfumes

Fat robins glutted with southern worms, will warble liquid notes and hop indolently in rich green lawns

Austen Lake

Fourteen for Florida

THE BRAVES WILL BE IN, nothing to it newsmen and two vacationists who are going to worship the sun and sit on their spines while the ball players groan under their winter's suet and take long, oozing gallops around the outfield fence

A gallery of St. Pete's jobless natives, with sun-creased necks and slack, thin clothing, will be slouching on the bleacher stands when the Braves arrive self-appointed experts on the players' skill and bantering in the soft, slurring speech of the South

Amiable folk, grown lean with much sitting, who loaf, like

farmhands watching the sun set and after that the stars

Am I the stars in Florida, my friends, are bright spots, large as grapefruit, which come down close overhead in a velvet sky, near enough to be hand picked

Life in St Pete is what you make it. There are miles of waterfront, edged with silver beaches where lazy waves come in from the warm gulf and, as you bathe, schools of needle fish, slender, green, and as long as a bodkin, come to frisk about your legs.

Well, tomorrow is Friday By Sunday morning, before liebed folk are astir, the Braves will be feeling the bounce of the winter sun on their cheeks.

Weep my friends, for their hardship!

WITH HIS AMAZING GENIUS for saying things, Dr. Frederick Rand Rogers, B. U's Phys Ed Dean, rose recently before Simmons College girls and recited as follows:

"Among the worst sports I class boxing, wrestling and football because they encourage the spirit of competition and aim to humiliate . . . opponents. Competition is the process of striving for some prize that cannot be shared. It is un-Christian of one neighbor to take away from another neighbor—as is the case in competition."

Well, call me darling!

What doctrine of panty-ism and Sunday syrup is this? Have we old college heroes, who shed our teeth and sprung our joints, been living in sin?

I have waffle [illegible] orks on my back where the gorilla hordes of Pennsylvania, Princeton, Washington and Jefferson planted their cleats

I have a Potts fracture that creaks in wet weather and practically no front teeth. I just wish I could get those old football tapes together and get Dr. Rogers to give them a good talking to.

Well, kiss my bruises!

Now, Doctor climb up on my knee here where I can talk papa. Don't we know that these rough, rowdy college sports are really weally a scale m[illegible] for later living, that the little boys who get knocked down, [illegible] busted and spanked, learn to rise again, grit their teefies and go back for more?

EKKIE 20 Grand READY

MUST BEAT 2:02 TO WIN

NEW RECORD IN $100,000 'CAP SURE

Santa Anita, Cal., Feb. 21—It will take better than 2:02 for the mile and a quarter to beat Equipoise and Twenty Grand here Saturday.

Both are ready to do that, both are fit and both backed by their respective trainers to approach the form which placed them among the great horses of all time when they go to the post in the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap.

The track record for the distance is 2 06 4-5, held by Culloden, no top flight horses having as yet gone a mile and a quarter here.

Thomas J. Healey, trainer of Equipoise, said today "Ekky" looks in first class shape.

And William Brennan, trainer of Twenty Grand, is positive this great horse has returned to form and can and will do 2 02 or better.

Said Healey.

"Equipoise has had bad feet from the start. He has always been a problem. He had harder racing as a two-year-old than any horse in his class has ever had.

"At Louisville on the morning of the Kentucky Derby, as a 3-year-old, he came down with what we think was a cracked bone in one of his feet.

"The x-rays failed to show any cracked bone, but he suffered extreme pain for a month, and we still believe this was what caused it.

"We scratched him at 11 o'clock on the morning of the race and were severely criticised for it, but the horse simply was in no shape to run as his subsequent condition proved. He was out for the rest of the year.

"The following year he came out as good as ever excepting that the same foot went sore after every race.

"Well, the main reason why I like Equipoise now is that his foot for the first time in his career hasn't gone sore after his two races at Santa Anita.

"As far as this foot is concerned, he is in the finest shape of his career, although of course it is against the laws of nature that Equipoise at seven should have all the speed and stamina he had at four and five."

By Dave Wilson

BEST BET—STANDOUT

Hialeah Park, Fla., Feb. 21—Standout may prove to be all that his name implies in the one mile and a furlong of the seventh race here tomorrow afternoon.

| 10 | Runamuck | 112 | McCrossen | 20-1 |

LEMONT, WISE DUKE and GLORY GREENOCK are fancied as named in this affair. In the event none of the above trio gets postward then look for Holdum Brown to cop the lion's share of the spoils.

Civil War, Furfiber, Banish Fear

SECOND RACE—$500, claiming, three-year-olds, six furlongs.

| | | | | |
| 5 | Civil War | x105 | Lynch | 4-1 |

CIVIL WAR came home on the chin-strap against slightly inferior ones last time out. In front of that, the silver color-bearer was a corking second to Bright Haven. FURFIBER will be all dangerous if morning trials are any criterion.

| 4 | Miss Elegance | 114 | O'Marey | 15-1 |

cFor[illegible] Stable & W. S. Kilmer.

The Widener entry of SICKLE FEATHER and DARK LADY receive the top figures here. Both are in great shape and either is capable of winning. BAY SISTER, runner-up to Marching Home, has worked well since that effort. The Bradley miss is strictly the one to fear.

Billy Bee, Nice Talk, Night Serge

FOURTH RACE—$1000, allowances, three-year-olds, seven furlongs.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 4 | Billy Bee | 112 | Wright | 1-1 |
| 5 | Nice Talk | 112 | Pollard | 4-1 |
| 3 | Night Serge | 109 | Steffen | 8-1 |
| 1 | Currants | 115 | Porter | 10-1 |

| 6 | aShow Boy | 106 | Critchfield | 10-1 |
| 7 | Dancing Spirit | 107 | Horn | 20-1 |

aSimpson and Codd entry.

BILLY BEE, fifth in the Bahamas Handicap, ran a remarkable race in that effort, considering that he was in close quarters the last half-mile. His conditioner, Trainer R. E. Potts, thought he was the best horse in that affair. NICE TALK, the main danger, placed to the improved Beaver Dam last time out.

Golden Way, Sang Froid and Grainger, Chastity.

FIFTH RACE—$1000, claiming, four-year-olds and up, one mile.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 3 | Golden Way | 112 | Porter | 2-1 |

| 5 | Rebel Yell | 107 | Wright | 10-1 |
| 6 | Fire Mask | 99 | Litzenberger | 10-1 |

aHorne Stable entry.

GOLDEN WAY pulled up sound as a bell of brass in his last winning effort. The one-time Widener star appears to be in grand shape. He is the class on past performances.

Mareve, Flowery, Lotus Bud

SIXTH RACE—$800, claiming, four-year-olds and up, one and one-eighth miles.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | Mareve | x108 | Bryson | 2-1 |
| 3 | Flowery | x106 | Lynch | 3-1 |
| 8 | Lotus Bud | x103 | G. Watson | 10-1 |
| 9 | Flaxen | x106 | Dupre | 10-1 |

| 2 | Barkis | 116 | Long | 20-1 |

MAREVE dropped a tough decision to Flat Rock last time out. The daughter of Messenger might have won that race with stronger handling. FLOWERY and LOTUS BUD are the main danger. They are rated as named.

Standout, Momo, Mad Career

SEVENTH RACE—$800, claiming, four-year-olds and up, one and one-eighth miles.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | Standout | xx115 | Perna | 2-1 |
| 3 | Momo | x108 | Lynch | 3-1 |
| 9 | Mad Career | 118 | Wright | 5-1 |
| 10 | Idle Flirt | 111 | Abel | 8-1 |
| 8 | Tom Jack Jr | x113 | McManus | 15-1 |

| 4 | Blondino | 111 | Fallon | 15-1 |
| 2 | Musing | 113 | Stout | 15-1 |

STANDOUT will have MOMO to drub. The latter was a fast going third at seven furlongs only a few days back. MAD CAREER appears next best.

PATRICK Crescent COACH

'HAS SON WITH FAST SEXTET'

Lest Patrick, manager of the New York Rangers, certainly believes in keeping his family hockey minded. He has his son Lyn already with the Rangers, and Lyn is giving a pretty good account of himself.

Both of Lester's sons, Lyn and Murray, attended the hockey school held by the Rangers' manager while the major leaguers were training in Winnipeg last fall. Both showed up well in the workouts.

Lyn is a forward, and since the Rangers were looking for wingmen young Patrick received his big chance. He was rather slow in getting under way, but of late he has shown sufficient ability to assure his being retained as a major leaguer.

Brother Murray on the other hand was not so formidable. Murray being the bigger of the two boys, turned out for a defense position. He was handicapped from the start.

The Rangers had Ching Johnson and Earl Seibert, a couple of real star defense men. Young Murray hardly could expect to make good under this sort of competition.

BEST IN U. S.

Lester decided Murray was too good a prospect to allow him to get away. The elder Patrick decided to bring Murray along with six or seven other of his best pupils to New York, where he could keep his eye on them.

When these boys arrived in New York they cast their lot with the Crescent Hamilton A. C. team. The Crescents always had a good amateur team but with the acquisition of these stars their stock sought a new high.

These boys along with some of the finest American college talent made the Crescent team the outstanding amateur team in America.

Foster Will Grant Doyle a License

By International News Service

Providence, R. I., Feb. 21—So long as Jack Doyle, Irish heavyweight champion, lives up to the requirements of the National Boxing Association, he can have a permit to box in the United States, Edward C. Foster, president of the N. B. A. today had ruled.

Commenting on protests cabled to him from England that Doyle was owing $25,000 in England as the result of the fouling of Jack Peterson in a bout there, Foster declared that he could do nothing about it here.

He pointed out that Doyle does not hold a British license, therefore he is a "free agent" and the N. B. A. must consider his application for an American permit.

If he did hold a British license, Foster said, then the Association could act because of the working agreement.

"Doyle has not applied yet for a license," said Foster, "and I do not know when he will, but when he does, I shall have to issue one so that he can box."

PLAYFAIR OF HARVARD IN 5000-METER RUN

By WALTER KILEY

The Norfolk Young Men's Association has lined up an attractive program of track and field competition for the Emergency Relief games to be held tomorrow afternoon at the 101st Regiment Armory on East Newton street.

Thanks to Jack Ryder, who has entered many of his Boston College and B. A. A. squads, and the co-operation of other local college and school coaches, the competition bids fair to be close and interesting.

The committee in charge headed by Francis S. McLaughlin had in mind arranging races for individuals who are unable to [illegible] the bigger Garden meets. It has many of these as well as some of the local headliners as well.

One of the features will be a 5000 meter run from scratch. Tom McDonough, Mike Portanova and Robert Campbell of the B. A. A., Bob Playfair of Harvard and Frank Delear of Boston College are among the most prominent starters in this event.

The 50-yard hurdles will be another scratch event. The 50-yard dash, 300, 600 and 1000-yard runs, the one mile walk and the running jump are open handicap events for men. Topping off the program will be a series of college and school relay races.

A few women's events, including a club relay race, has been included to give the girls a chance to display their running talents.

In the meanwhile national interest focuses on the national championship games at New York on Saturday night.

NATIONALS

The defenders will be Ralph Metcalfe of Marquette, at 60-meters, Charles Hornbostel of Indiana at 1000-meters, Glenn Cunningham of Kansas at 1500-meters; John W. Fellows of the New York A. C. in the 5000-meters, Joe McCluskey of the N. Y. A. C. in the 3000-meter steeplechase, Charles Eschenbach of New York A. C. in the 1500-meter walk; Jesse Owens of Ohio State in the running broad jump; and Henry Dreyer of Rhode Island State in the 35-pound weight throw.

Critics have definitely swung on to the Cunningham bandwagon as the Kansan meets Bonthron for the third time this season. In their two previous mile duels, Cunningham's margin of victory over Bonny has been in each instance more than 30 yards, Venzke being the main contender.

It will be interesting to note Glenn Hardin's success in his 1935 New York debut. Louisiana State's great quarter-miler and hurdler will compete in the 600-meter event.

This shapes up as one of the fastest fields of the night bringing together Hardin, Milton Sandler, Ivan Fuqua, Elton Brown and possibly Hornbostel.

Hornbostel may even at this late date decide on attempting a rare doubles victory, in the 600 and 1000 meter races. He won both the 600 and 1000-yard runs of the Millrose games.

SOLTERS ONLY MAN WORRYING COLLINS

By Joe Cashman

Wiggly Dick Porter, baseball's gift to the ladies, is through as a Red Sox outfielder.

Carl Reynolds, another of the 1934 flychasers at the Fens, hangs to the roster by a most slender thread.

Julius "Moose" Solters, still another of last season's gardeners hasn't communicated with the home office since receiving his contract.

Pitchers Wes Ferrell, Gordon "Dusty" Rhodes and Henry Johnson, all in Florida at present, are unsigned but are expected to agree to terms quickly after talking with Manager Joe Cronin at the Sarasota camp next week.

Porter learned his goose was cooked last Sunday, when he was visited by Eddie Collins at his Maryland home.

If he can't find a spot for himself, his contract will be turned over to Syracuse, International League farm of the Sox.

SOLTERS' CASE

"I don't know what to think about Solters," Collins said. "There have been stories printed in Pittsburgh, where he lives, that he is dissatisfied and, not having received his signature, I assume that's true.

"But he's never said a word to me about it. I might be able to reach an agreement with him, but I can't until I know what he wants.

"Reynolds," Eddie continued, "has stated our terms don't meet with approval. We feel we have treated him fairly. I will not send his contract back to him until he asks for it and agrees to the original figures.

"I'm not going chasing Solters, either, even though he's a good prospect.

"Our differences with Ferrell, Rhodes and Johnson are very slight. If I tried I know I could have them all in line now.

"I preferred to let them talk with Joe Cronin at Sarasota next week."

Jersey Boxers Coming

By Jack Conway

SPEAKING of news: Tom Kanaly has signed the Golden Glove champions of New Jersey to clash with a star Boston team at the Arena on March 5.

J. Frank Facey and T. Kanaly will pick the Boston team which will meet the sturdy invaders.

Mr. Boston

There will be bouts at 112, 118, 126, 135, 147, 160 and 175 pounds and in the heavyweight division.

The success of the recent amateur boxing shows staged by the B. A. A. and Irish-American A. A. prompted the arrangement of the inter-State show.

The Irish-American A. A. has completed arrangements to show a team of Irish boxers against an All-American team at the Garden next month. Amateur boxing is staging a two-fisted comeback.

GINO GARIBALDI

GINO GARIBALDI, Italian heavyweight wrestler, intends to treat Dan O'Mahoney, Irish champion, rough when they meet in a finish bout at the Garden a week from tomorrow night.

Gino says he isn't the least bit upset over O'Mahoney's power and asserts he will beat him at his own game.

O'Mahoney will wrestle the rugged Rudy Dusek in Toronto tonight. O'Mahoney won from Rudy at the Garden and is confident he will be able to repeat.

Garibaldi pinned Ernie Dusek at the Garden last week. The Italian heavyweight previously engaged in a fiery draw with Zaharas and will challenge Ed Don George if he disposes of O'Mahoney.

Garibaldi, George Calza and Renato Gardini have been the best Italian wrestlers to show in Boston.

Calza has returned to Italy, while Gardini has not wrestled for some time. Garibaldi is a youngster, and has shown much improvement in recent starts.

The Falcon A. C. of Lawrence will conduct the Merrimac Valley amateur boxing championships at the Boys' Club Arena tomorrow afternoon. There will be bouts at 118, 126, 135 and 147 pounds.

EDDIE COLLINS

EDDIE Collins, General Manager of the Red Sox, once more kept faith with baseball writers when he named the six players who are unsigned.

A week ago Collins informed the members of the fourth estate that six players had failed to come to terms with the Sox. He agreed to reveal their names if they didn't sign within a week.

With the players still unsigned, Collins placed their names on the board. They are Porter, Reynolds, Solters, Wes Ferrell, Rhode and Johnson. Porter has been given permission by the Sox to try to get a job with another club.

Collins has given his final figure to Reynolds. The financial differences with the other players are not great and are expected to be adjusted.

Collins still refuses to get excited about horse and dog racing. He is devoting all his attention to the Red Sox, and should have a splendid team in the field when the season opens.

* * *

I talked with Judge Fuchs of the Braves on the telephone. The Judge has completed arrangements for the advance guard of Braves to leave for St. Petersburg, Fla., tomorrow.

He tells me his ticket sale is going along fine, and that he is confident he will lead the Tribe out of its financial difficulties.

Benny Ginsberg of the Club Mayfair will stage a show for the Emergency Fund on Sunday night. Festivities will get underway at 8 o'clock.

The best theatrical and night club acts in town will add to the merriment of the evening. There will be dinner, a four hour show, and dancing from midnight until 2 a. m. With the poor and needy of Boston receiving substantial help.

Sturdy Max, Champion, Shows Here

Meet Champion Sturdy Max, the history making Orange Belton, English setter which has been walking off with top honors over the Eastern dog circuits.

Ch. Sturdy Max raised owned and bred by Syracuse, New York dog fanciers, makes his Boston appearance at the dog show at Mechanics Building today and tomorrow.

He was only a little over a year old back in February of 1934 when he was entered as a novice pup at Madison Square Garden where he created a sensation by winning first novice, winners dog and best of winners, some slight forerunner of his future as a show performer.

At Newark, New Haven and Buffalo he repeated and then went on to make his championship at Buffalo. Now this was a remarkable achievement as the championship was attained all in eleven days undefeated and at four of the most competitive shows of the East.

But Sturdy Max was just started. Since he has been reaping honors with regularity. He was best of breed at Worcester and best sporting dog, best of breed at Devon and best sproting dog; best of breed at the famous Morris-Essex show and best in show at Erie.

CubsMeetBeavers at Arena Tonight

By Bill Grimes

In danger of losing their third successive game, the Bruins Cubs probably will turn in one of the best games of the season tonight against Quebec Beavers at the Arena.

Since swamping the Eagles a week ago, Bruin Cubs have lost to Rhode Island Reds and Philadelphia Arrows.

The Reds tacked a 4 to 2 defeat on them at the Arena last Saturday and down in Philly they were beaten by the same score by the Arrows.

Unquestionably, the Cubs are the class of the Can-Am League and their form it is difficult to understand how they allowed themselves to be tipped over by Providence and Philadelphia, especially the latter, which has been woefully undermanned all season.

In the Beavers, the Cubs are taking on a far more formidable team than the outfit that appeared here on the last trip. Since their previous visit to the "States," the Beavers have strengthened. They were without the services of Leo Bourgeault, leaving them with but two defense men, Manager Albert Leduc and Red Doran.

WHITEY FIELDS

Bourgeault is back and at the peak of his form while the attack has been strengthened through the acquisition of Tommy Filmore and "Whitey" Fields.

Filmore and Fields are old Boston favorites. Tommy was with the Cubs a year ago and can play a major league brand of hockey when he so desires.

B. C. SILENT ON COACH

McNAMARA BEST PROSPECT TO DATE

Official announcement of the successor to Joe McKenney, as head football coach at Boston College, will not be made until March 4, according to the agreement of the Graduate Council on Athletics.

The suddenness of McKenney's departure from the post caught the authorities unaware, and, rather than make a hasty choice, they wish to give every applicant due consideration.

This move does not indicate that Dinny McNamara will not get the call but merely that the whole matter will be acted on in a careful and leisurely manner.

At the annual dinner of the Alumni to the football team, which was held at University Heights McKenney repeated his sincere regrets at leaving B. C. after 11 years of the most intimate and pleasant association.

McKenney praised the authorities, the Alumni, his assistants and his players for their support during his years as coach and expressed the belief that his successor would have great success because with a continuance of the present circumstances at B. C he could not do otherwise.

At the dinner letters, sweaters and certificates of merit were awarded to the 1934 team. Robert E. Curran of South Boston was declared the choice of the students as the outstanding player on last fall's eleven.

Among those who addressed the gathering were Rev. David V. Fitzgerald, president of the Alumni, Rev. Walter F. Friary, S. J., dean of the college; Coaches John Kelley, Jack Ryder, Frank McGrehan, "Dinny" McNamara and Bill Ormsby; John P. Curley, and Rev. Francis V. Sullivan, S. J.

J. S. BACHE & CO.—It is a reasonable assumption that a considerable portion of the temporary speculative commitments that were assumed on the strength of the Supreme Court decisions have during this two day recessionary interval been eliminated. The pressures of such holdings from this point on will in all likelihood be progressively lessened, thus permitting the inception of a technical recovery.

JOSEPHTHAL & CO.—As for the rails and utilities, the declines have been so extensive that we question the wisdom of selling at these levels despite the unfavorable news on these groups.

Bond Market

TREASURIES ARE LOWER

New York, Feb. 21 (AP) Investment absorption of high-grade loans was one of the features of a rather quiet bond market today.

Many of the issues of secondary quality lacked support except at lower levels, an dthe group showed a number of fair-sized losses. U. S. governments were inactive, with most of the treasuries a little lower.

In government bond circles wide interest was aroused by the announcement of Secretary Morgenthau that the Treasury would finance its March 15 requirements through the sale of discount bills against week-to-week maturities instead of seeking new funds through a long or short term issue.

One of the minor excitements of the market was another sharp break in the bonds of Baldwin Locomotive Works on the New York Curb Exchange.

The 6s, with warrants, dropped 3¼ points to 55, following a severe decline yesterday. The bond, ex-warrants, was off 4 points at 45¼.

LIBERTY Mutual

INCOME IS Higher

Premium volume increased substantially, regular dividends were earned and paid, and the financial position was materially strengthened in 1934, according to the 23rd annual report submitted to policyholders of the Liberty Mutual Insurance Company by S. Bruce Black, president.

Total income in 1934 amounted to $23,429,938. Premiums written totaled $22,543,105, an increase of $6,322,111, or 39 per cent, and were the largest in Liberty Mutual's history.

Increased employment and payrolls, combined with a substantial increase in the number of business concerns insured, resulted in a large gain in workmen's compensation premiums, which totaled $12,377,276. Automobile insurance premiums increased 15 per cent to $7,585,572, and general liability and miscellaneous premiums increased 5 per cent to $2,080,297.

Dividends of $3,680,422 were returned to policyholders in 1934, and since commencement of business in 1912 these savings have totaled $41,597,412.

Assets on December 31, 1934, totaled $29,750,010, a gain during the year of $4,735,757. Surplus increased to $4,741,881, after providing for a contingency reserve to bring all securities to December 31, 1934 market quotations. Both assets and surplus are largest in the company's history. Cash and U. S. Government securities represent 46 per cent of total assets.

In his report, Mr. Black stressed the increase in automobile accidents which he attributes to more powerful automobiles, high-speed highways, and relaxation of speed limit regulations; also to the increased use of cars and a greater number of intoxicated drivers and pedestrians.

Liberty Mutual is working with public and private organizations, as well as with policyholders, in an effort to control the cost of automobile insurance by preventing accidents and by prompt handling of accident claims. Mr. Black also emphasized that the cost of automobile insurance is largely determined by the drivers of cars who have accidents, but that it is also affected by the wide differences which exist in the control of traffic, construction and condition of streets and traffic signals, and law enforcement in the different communities

Life Insurance Sales

CALLED BEST BAROMETER OF BUSINESS TREND

The annual financial statements of life assurance companies are among the best barometers of general business experience on this continent.

Hence, during the past five years when the decline in individual incomes resulted in the purchase of fewer and smaller life insurance policies, the statements in question faithfully reflected that fact.

As the depression continued there was a more extensive termination of existing insurance and, at its most acute stages, there was an exceptional increase of borrowings and of cash surrenders.

Plainly, this was an impairment, in many instances, by the insured, under the stress of immediate necessity, of prudent provision for the future of himself and his dependants.

The report of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada and the remarks of its president, Arthur B. Wood, at its annual meeting, are gratifying evidence of an improvement of conditions.

The report reflects a return of confidence and a marked trend toward recovery in business.

Because of the huge investments of the life assurance companies in business enterprises covering a wide diversification of interests, the healthier conditions in trade indicated in this report make encouraging reading.

Increases in new assurances and in repayments of policy loans, decreases in policy terminations and reduced demands for new loans—all these demonstrate that life insurance, which proved such a bulwark of strength during prolonged and trying conditions, is, in turn, keeping full pace with the forces of economic recovery.

23rd ANNUAL REPORT

Premiums written totalled $22,543,105, a gain of $6,322,111, or 39 per cent.

Assets on December 31, 1934 amounted to $29,750,010, an increase during the year of $4,735,757.

After providing for all reserves, including a Contingency Reserve sufficient to bring all securities to market value, surplus increased to $4,741,881.

Dividends of $3,680,422 were returned to policyholders in 1934. Since commencement of business in 1912 these savings to policyholders have amounted to $41,597,412.

The number of policyholders served has increased steadily each year and is now larger than ever before.

RUBBER

Trade OUTLOOK Cheers

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW

In studying the groups and issues likely to benefit from selective market conditions careful attention should be given to the tire and rubber industry.

Information coming to hand indicate another tire price rise of from 8 to 10 per cent is being considered. It is conceivable that this will restore the profit balance on sales lost through the rise in costs and subsidiary and higher wage scales. The companies we are inclined to favor within the industry are those with large direct contacts with the replacement tire market.

P. W. Litchfield

Two such companies are Goodyear Tire & Rubber under the effective leadership of P. W. Litchfield and the General Tire & Rubber so ably directed by W. O'Neil. Actute analysis of the replacement tire market's prospects indicate approximately 2,000,000 tires over the 1934 figure of 32,000,000 tires. That explains our leaning toward companies catering to the replacement tire market. Goodyear is one of the big four in the industry, while General is a smaller, more compact unit exclusively directing its energies to replacement sales.

Net shock. General Tire earnings of $3.97 per share in 1933 should be bettered with a good start in 1935.

Douglas Aircraft after a jaunty move in November and December, has flattened out...Speculative odds would seem to favor a buyer in the 21-22 zone. Mental stop orders at 20 to limit loss in the event of a sudden break should seem wise ...Western Union will be a stock looking stock if it reaches down to 27 this. The drop in that meager price will be averted and an area of accumulation built up between 28 and 31.

From two distinct and unrelated sources, both excellent, we hear words of cheer. Both expect selective bull market conditions to rule for some time to come. We are inclined to expect the same, as suggested here yesterday. We add this idea, the rails are making a start on the best-looking bottom formation in months. If sales between 32 and 35 on the hourly chart of the Dow-Jones rail average. Lesadium of post gold clause decision selling, which could come today, will throw more light on the picture.

Shorts—The reason we pick today to visit a prosperous bank is to keep does not suggest a reversal after the Wednesday selling ... Rather it points to the need of a further cleaning out process ... Possibly of those who foolishly bought strength on Monday without regard for the consequences ... We trust we note that inflation talk is creeping into more prominent pieces in the news ... In line with our forecasts ... And perhaps the skeptics will now admit that Consolidated Gas did indicate 16 on the downside.

Westinghouse is an issue far which we always have a warm spot. It is a great trading medium. Running Atchison a close second. It has been done wonderfully well. Traveling from the 28 mark to 41 with only two real reactions. At the top price it is threatening to break a downtrend line. One that has held since July, 1933. A rise here would retaliate technical strength and present a buying opportunity of real scale. We would be wary of a slide to 35, since it would presage the need of more accumulation.

10-11—Prices were generally firm in the first hour. Metals moved higher. U. S. Smelting was up more than 1. Utilities and rails were firm. Sales approximated 180,000 shares.

12-1—An irregular tone prevailed in the third hour. Sugars featured on the upside and American Sugar was up more than 1. Quiet trading continued, with sales amounting to 400,000 shares.

1-2—Market drifted uncertainly in the closing hour. Tone was steady and trading was listless. Sales were 450,000 shares.

MODERATE RISE IN UTILITIES

New York, Feb. 21—The stock market took on a slightly steadier appearance today chiefly because of the cessation of liquidation in the utilities which was followed by a moderate rally in the group with Consolidated Gas, Public Service, North American and Columbia Gas up from fractions to a point

A slump in Baldwin Locomotive issues to new lows for 1934-1935 was an unsettling factor. Other rail equipment issues moved with Westinghouse Air Brake were weak.

Railroad shares were inclined to be soft with fa orbes ruling barely steady

Industrial shares did little to distinguish themselves as Steel American Can and Bethlehem held in a narrow range around their previous closing price

Sugar stocks were active and strong with Am Sugar rising to 2 points Cuban Dom Sugar Refining and American Sugar

Loew's Inc. was another strong spot rallying sharply following the increase in the dividend to $2 annually, from $1

Earnings Off

Further up ettlement in the locomotive group, apparently based on a cloudy earnings situation, did not aid the bulls' cause.

In addition to the pressure on Baldwin, some selling of American Locomotive followed publication of the company's annual report showing a larger 1934 net loss than in the previous year

Loews found friends when the directors of this amusement concern increased the quarterly dividend from 25 to 50 cents.

This, however, in the common indicated some time ago at the annual meeting when improving business was noted

While various market commentators believed that the technical position of stocks had been bettered recently, few looked for any pronounced rally at this time and decidedly selective markets were expected

GRAINS

Chicago, Feb 21 (AP)—Wheat closed unsettled, ¼ to 1 cent above yesterday's finish, May 85¾-86; corn ¾ off to ¼ up, May 83¾-¾; oats at ¼ decline to ¼ advance and provisions unchanged to a rise of 5 cents

Exchanges

New York, Feb. 21 (AP)—Foreign exchanges steady. Great Britain in dollars, others in cents.

Great Britain demand, 4.85½; cables 4.88 1-16; 60-day bills, 4.84¾. France demand 6.62, cables, 6.62; Italy demand, 8.47½; cables, 8.47½.

ADVICE on LOVE by BEATRICE FAIRFAX and NELL BRINKLEY

Love Braves Marriage With Outcast

YOU'D KNOW by her handwriting, stationery, the way her letter is expressed, that she is "nice" and you wonder how she is going to make the grade, or if she's going to make the grade at all, with such a problem. Here's her letter:

"DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

"I never can remember when I didn't know Harry. We lived near each other and went to school together. But his home wasn't happy like ours; his father drank and his mother wore herself out trying to keep the family going, and died of consumption when Harry was twelve.

"He sold papers and had no regular home, and when he was about sixteen he got in with a gang and began to go wrong. Still, we always cared a lot about each other, and he used to hope he'd be able to go to night school, so he could get a decent job.

"Then he got into trouble sure enough. He was with some boys who robbed a store—he looked out for the cop on the corner, but didn't go in the place at all. Still, they were all sent to jail.

"When he came out he came to see me first thing, and told me if he starved he meant to go straight. It was awfully hard for him to keep a job, because people would hear he'd been sent up and he'd get fired.

"My father wouldn't let him come to the house, and as I really loved him, I used to meet him away from home. He got a job in another state and we were married secretly. My father found out about us and informed on him, so he lost that job, too.

"Dad says he intends to have the marriage annulled. Miss Fairfax, don't you think it's wrong not to give a boy a chance when he wants to go right?

"DELLA B.

Yes, I think it's too bad not to give anyone who wants to go right a chance. I say this, knowing all the arguments which have been brought forward against parole boards. But there ought to be some way of differentiating between old criminals and first offenders—boys from wretched homes who have gone wrong through bad company, have taken their medicine, and desire to go right. Yet, these lose job after job when some one informs on them.

In prison this boy could have fraternized with inmates and learned of underworld characters who would have befriended him when his time was up. But he came out and has been going straight for two years, though he has been fired from one job after another.

Have you ever tried to put yourself in the place of a man newly released from prison? Free at last the suit of shoddy clothes and $5.00 given to you won't take you far or keep you long. You're an outcast. Officers of the law regard you as a criminal and warn you to leave town. The world is afraid of you.

Why doesn't the state or charge of released prisoners who want to be decent citizens? It wouldn't take long to discover which of the former prisoners want to go straight and watch did not.

The girl's letter opens a plea of food for thought. My advice her is to get a job and keep home fires burning. If Harry has proven to someone willing trust him that he intends to straight

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

We were engaged, but when I found out he was going with another girl he stopped writing to me. We were to be married this month, but I guess that's all off now. What would you advise me to do—go back and talk things over with him or sue him for breach of promise?

I have no ring from him, but I have all of his letters promising to marry me. In spite of everything I still love him, and I know the girl he is going with is just taking him around as a cake to pay the bills.

RITA

Breach of promise suits are a thing out of fashion, my dear girl, and I think it would go harder with you than with the young man if you should bring this matter into court.

Judges and juries regard young ladies who put a money value on their affections as gold-diggers. The sentimental days, when the girl won the suit, seem to have passed.

Talk the matter out with him. If you feel that would ease your mind, but let me remind you that an engaged man, who can be whistled off by one girl, is likely to be whistled off even more quickly when he is married.

"ALL-BRAN FORMS MAJOR PORTION OF MY BREAKFAST"

Delicious Cereal Relieved His Constipation*

Read Mr. Huyghe's voluntary letter: "After suffering for years, I happened to notice in the grocery a box of ALL-BRAN. I determined to give it a fair trial.

"Today it forms the major portion of my breakfast. I cannot say enough for its effect, as I am a man 58 years of age, at the time in life when one needs just what ALL-BRAN does for you."—Mr. Robert A. Huyghe, 810 Union St., New Orleans, La.

*Constipation due to insufficient "bulk" in meals.

Research shows that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN furnishes "bulk" to exercise the intestines. ALL-BRAN also supplies vitamin B and iron.

Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. With each meal, in serious cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN resists digestion better than the "bulk" in leafy vegetables. How much better to use this gentle food in place of patent medicines.

At all grocers in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Can It Be? But It Is!

By Nell Brinkley

IF you had told Madame Fashion and the girl she first handed berets to, to wear—berets and pancakes and Russian tallies, fezes and gay-ninety round fur caps, all slammed down over the right eye no matter what the lady's face or the occasion—if, I say, you had told them that they would be going in, in the hopeful New Year of 1935, for BONNETS—off-the-face effects with the rather quaint and wide-eyed baby look that they give—they would have waved you away and tipped the hat farther down over the right eye—unbelieving!

Setting Up the Dummy

When South found himself at a Grand Slam contract on the hand below, he felt a little unhappy as he knew that he needed some good breaks to fulfill it.

He finally made seven-odd by setting up the dummy and only using his own long suit incidentally.

South, Dealer
Neither side vulnerable

The bidding:

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1♡ | Pass | 3♣ | Pass |
| 3◇ | Pass | 4◇ | Pass |
| 5◇ | Pass | 5NT | Pass |
| 6◇(1) | Pass | 7◇ | Pass |
| Pass | Pass | | |

(1) Six clubs would be the complete sign-off over the conventional five notrump bid.

West opened the spade ten, and South, before even playing from dummy, stopped to take inventory.

The average player might look at this hand in terms of eliminating his own losers and setting up his long suit.

Yet had South attempted to make his own hand good, he would have gone down with the hearts breaking four and two.

Any attempt to make seven-odd by discarding two losing spades in the South hand on dummy's clubs and then setting up the long hearts in the South hand was doomed to work on a three-three heart break.

With a four-two heart break the South hand has not sufficient entries to enable all this work to be done and still keep enough trumps to draw those of the opponents, except by not touching trumps at very late in the play.

The proper line of play which South used successfully was as follows: The spade lead was won in dummy and two of South's own losing spades discarded on the Ace and King of clubs.

Dummy's low club was ruffed by South's small diamond, and after the spade King was cashed, dummy was reentered with the heart King.

The low spade was led from dummy and trumped with the diamond ten, and the King and Queen of diamonds were cashed.

South laid down the heart Ace and continued with a low heart to the only means of entering dummy to draw the last trump. The heart suit did not break three and three, but South was safe.

Even though East were out of hearts, he did not have the remaining trump and could not overruff dummy. The Ace of diamonds dropped the Jack, and the Queen of clubs took the last trick.

South, by setting up the dummy, fulfilled his contract, despite the four two heart division. This same division would have prevented seven-odd from being made with the line of play originally planned.

Is Marriage the Thing?

In the March issue of the Cosmopolitan, Mrs. George B. Simmons has an article on marriage written in the form of a letter to a young engaged couple, in which she takes the affirmative of the question "Is Marriage the Thing?"

She writes from the country, reminding "Jerry" of his childhood on the farm, and his repeated efforts to ride Bird, the pony. She reminds him of how, when he was thrown over his mother's head, he merely shouted: "I didn't hurt one single bit. I'm all right."

And now Jerry and Jean, whose marriage was at this same farm, write that they are in love and ask for advice: "Is marriage the thing?" Of course, their friend knows the answer they want, in spite of their modern independence of thought and deed, their desire to be "sensible," and that this: "Yes, get married. Take your chances, do your best. Trust God and yourselves, and don't be afraid."

God wants us to start where we can see to start, and then He sends us light to make the sign posts on the road readable. Marriage will never go out of style, and human need and desire for love, home, children, happiness and security will never be outmoded.

As for happiness: "I must remind you that we get happiness by giving it . . . if only we could keep the stinginess out of human relationships!"

HUGH CERTAIN LEE IS NOT SHAMMING

CHAPTER 274

I DO NOT often lose every bit of poise and courage I possess, but when Hugh Grantland's knock sounded upon the nursery door, and Lillian asked if she or I should go to the door, I was panic stricken.

"Oh, you go!" I whispered, starting toward the door of the room in which my baby daughter was sleeping. "And let me out of here, please. I can't see him."

HUGH RESPONSIBLE

"Don't you dare!" she said, giving me a sound little shake. "If you funk this, you'll never forgive yourself, nor yet me for permitting you to make an idiot of yourself. What do you imagine Hugh will think if you run away from him like this? He knows you're in here. You talked to him just before."

"I hadn't heard then what he told father," I said.

"And you want to make Hugh feel like a criminal because of that?" she retorted. "Come! This isn't like you Madge, and I'm not going to let you get away with it. In ten more seconds I'm going to open that door, clutching you by the collar if I must or letting you stand up as a lady should. Take your choice. Neither 'and nor 'but.'"

"You win," I whispered. "Open the door. I shan't run away."

"Good girl!" she murmured as she moved toward the door.

From the threshold Hugh Grantland flashed an appealing look at me. Then he advanced into the room and stood before me apologetically, beseechingly, almost humbly.

"Your father said he had told you" he began uncertainly. "Can you ever forgive me for having brought anything so terrible upon you, even though unwittingly? You will believe, will you not, that I never dreamed Lee Chow had any of these crazed ideas in his head?"

My panic dropped from me as if it were a discarded garment. His need was far greater than mine. I had only the memory of danger to Dicky miraculously averted. He had the onus of responsibility for the crazed act of his friend, and felt a burden of actual guilt, fantastic as the idea was.

NOT TO BLAME

"Please don't say anything like that," I pleaded. "How can you possibly be to blame for anything Lee Chow has done?"

He clasped my hands convulsively—held them as if he would never let them go.

"I might have known what your divine charity would be," he said. "But I feel that I should have realized that this seizure was coming on. I knew that he was talking strangely but—"

He had been looking into my face as he talked, and at something he saw there he stepped back a pace and dropped my hands.

"You don't believe Lee Chow is crazed!" he cried.

Stuart's Art Better

CHAPTER 34

Stuart interrupted her suddenly with some indeterminate word like "wait." He went over to his easel, threw aside a half-finished picture and grabbed up a new canvas. His eyes were blazing now and his lips a taut line.

Julie, fighting down sudden anger, recognized that look. He had an idea for a picture, "for crying out loud!" He hadn't even listened while she—she had been offering him—everything! What a fool!

She stamped her foot, but it made a ludicrous soft "plop" on the bare floor and it hurt her.

"Listen, Julie!" Stuart flashed around to look at her for the first time. "There's an hour of daylight left. Run along, that's a good girl, and let me work. Come and see me again . . .

Julie flounced over to the couch and thrust her feet into her pumps, jammed on her hat and seized her furs without a word.

She opened the door, and just before she slammed it shut, she saw Stuart's hand go to the pocket where he had put the veil, and draw it out. She distinctly heard him murmur: "Sharlene! Sharlene!"

Julie ran down the hill to her pumpkin motor coach. The chauffeur climbed out hastily.

"Take me to a telephone, Jimmy," she said furiously. "I'm going to call up everybody and have a party. You 'tend to the bootlegger."

"It Isn't Fair!"

"You bet!" he said with alacrity, stowing her into the tonneau.

"It isn't fair!" Julie wept stormily to herself. 'She has everything, everything' She can even hold Stuart when she kicked him out' Oh, how I hate her!"

When Abe Foreman puffed his way up Stuart's hill, one very warm day, he was met at the door by an apparition—Stuart, thinner than ever, gaunt, paint-smeared, unshaven, his hair curling long and untidily over his collar.

"I came," Abe state between puffs, "because Lucien Morrow's been in raving—Oh, hello, Lucien". He had entered the studio by this time and recognized the big fellow stretched out on the couch.

"Lo, Abe. So you're commencing to take my word on Art, eh? Wow! How that does help the Id Ego—"

"I came," Abe said with dignity to the silent Stuart, "to see if by any chance you'd done anything in the old manner. I hope after climbing up that hill, you don't show me tripe again'—"

Stuart shrugged. "It isn't tripe," he said quietly.

"Well, I hope to tell you it isn't!" said Lucien belligerently. "And it's not in the 'old manner' either! It's in the new manner —and if you can't appreciate it—"

"Where's the picture?" asked Abe. Stuart indicated the canvas on the easel which was turned toward the window.

"There are a few slight things I want to do to it still," said Stuart, "but it's practically finished."

Abe went over to the easel and stared at the picture a long time, silent, frowning in concentration.

After an appreciabe wait, Lucien set his feet on the floor with a bang. "What's the matter with you, Abe? Can't you see it's gorgeous?"

"Um," murmured Foreman, non-committally, still staring. "Hindus, eh, Pennington?"

"Ah, yes"

"Good drawing in that marble free-work—"

"Two-Dollar Words"

"Um." Abe said again imperturbably, not to be rushed into anything. He stepped back and regarded the picture through half-closed eyes. "Moonlight," he mused wonderingly. "What an effect! Her eyes—they get you, don't they?"

I thought you'd wake up!" Lucien said grumpily.

"What do you call it?" Abe asked curiously.

"I've a wood-carver friend who's going to make it a frame" Stuart told him. "He's going to carve the name into the design 'Every Bitter Thing Is Sweet'

The words sang in the still room and became one with the witchery of the moonlight on the canvas. "Hm," said Abe, his eyes bewildered as they sought the picture. "Hm. Swell name," he finished, helplessly. Then he roused himself and went over and clapped Stuart on the back. "Congratulations, Pennington"

"Now," said Abe, rubbing his hands and beginning to bustle about, "I tell you what I'll do. I'll hang this picture with several choice Old Masters. Very special exhibition—high class publicity—"

"No, not this picture, Abe Stuart interrupted firmly but firmly. "The ice is broken now I can paint you any number of others—the ideas are burning me up. But this little feller stays at home—

"Nonsense" said Abe. "It's got to be exhibited to prepare the way for the others. You can't be out of the running as long as you have, and get right in again"

Stuart shook his head, smiling but unyielding. "Not this baby. The next one—"

"I'm not listening to you," said Abe. "This is how I'll hang it—"

And so Foreman argued for an hour, aided and abetted by Lucien. But it was noticeable that Abe did not carry the picture away with him although he shouted the last word from the steps beside the forlorn lily pool. "I'll be up after it as soon as the paint's dry. I've got a swell idea for framing it!"

Stuart came back laughing to Lucien. "He's got a fixation now about it. I'll have to hide it if I keep it out of his clutches"

Lucien was looking at the canvas through his cigar smoke "You're an idiot . . . Did you know Sharlene was in town?"

"No," said Stuart, and his voice sounded quite indifferent "Is that so?"

Lucien glanced at him quickly to see how real this indifference was. He found Stuart appraising his reflection in a mirror with mock horror. "Jehoashpat! I'd better see a barber before somebody takes me for Peter the Hermit"

Lucien was almost convinced even though the matter of that canvas. . . . He glanced about the littered untidy room. There were cups sitting about here and there containing dregs of coffee, their saucers full of cigarette stubs

"How long since you had a decent meal, Stuart?"

"Why, I don't remember—but I'm hungry enough now I'll heat some water and clean up and we'll go out for some chow"

When Stuart came back from the kitchen, Lucien said musingly: "Do you know something, boy? You ought to get married—"

"Never Marry Again"

"What?" exclaimed Stuart, fixing Lucien with a humorously stern look. "This from you—and you call yourself the prize squirrel in the cage"?

Lucien grimaced. "Nevertheless, there are women—I mean, if you could get the right sort, one who took the business of being a wife seriously. One who'd look after you—"

"You can't be serious—but if you are, here's the answer: There's only been one woman in my life—and she's dead."

"Don't kid yourself! She's more attractive than ever, and you're likely to run into her any day"

"That's Sharlene's ghost, in whom I have no interest," Stuart went over to the window and adjusted the curtain, and remained I stare out at the panorama. "You know," he said without turning, "I had low Sharlene on the way home from the Orient—on a ship that passed us in the sunset going the other way." . . .

Peg-top

By Annice Brink

*A PRINT of delicately misty blues and silver-grey, merging one into the other like a copse of birch trees on a foggy morning . . . in this spring crepe modelled for us by Miss Mary Benton, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Rogers Benton of Belmont. Pale blue stitched crepe outlines the pockets which turn the skirt into a peg-top, make the tie belt, and flutter in a cocarde at the throat. Revers lined with pale blue give the favorite two-piece effect. The frock is under seven dollars! Other more vivid colors than those mentioned give a different effect from the misty-elusive blues. ## Cookies THAT WON'T Stay in THE JAR

By MARTHA TEE

IT IS difficult to keep the cooky jar filled with cookies whose keeping qualities are not guaranteed within reaching distance with so many demands on it by hungry boys and girls.

But this effort is a worthwhile one when we know it means nourishment for growing children. Particularly delicious are these oatmeal cookies with a fig filling and you will want to try the sticks made with rich, golden dates

ECONOMY OATMEAL COOKIES

1 cup shortening
2 cups brown sugar
4 cups rolled oats
1 teaspoon soda
½ cup boiling water
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
½ cup cake flour
1 teaspoon cinnamon

FILLING

½ pound figs (1 cup)
8 marshmallows, cut in quarters
1 cup boiling water

Cream shortening and add sugar, mixing and beating well. Add rolled oats to the sugar mixture. Dissolve soda in water and add, together with the vanilla extract. Mix and sift flour and cinnamon and add to mixture. Chill, roll thin and cut with cookie cutter. White cookie mixture is chilling make filling. Place figs, marshmallows and boiling water in small sauce pan and cook gently until mixture thickens. Remove from heat and cool. Place small amount of mixture on cookies and cover with a second cookie. Crimp edges together with a fork. Bake in a moderate oven 350 deg. F. for approximately 15 minutes

And now just a word of advice about the baking of these cookies. The shortening must be thoroughly creamed, even beaten, before any sugar is added. Then, while adding the sugar, the mixture should again be beaten thoroughly. This is the method of mixing which results in these real "melt in your mouth" cookies after they are baked.

Another word of caution. Make sure that the dough is thoroughly chilled before attempting to roll out the cookies. Then roll very thin and cut with a cookie cutter

"ON TYPHOID SHIP AT SEA"

By FLOYD GIBBONS

HELLO EVERYBODY:

We have with us today, boys and girls, a gent who has been around, and seen a few things. He is H. Jacobson Sommerfelt of the Battery Hotel, New York city. Jake is a sailor, and he has had more than one scare in his life.

FLOYD GIBBONS.

He writes: "I was on the Indian Empire when she was wrecked off Cape Horn, and I was on the Port Adelaide when she was torpedoed in the middle of the Atlantic in mid-winter. I was invalided out of the British Army before 1915, and I saw action at Mons. Once with a couple of other fellows I hiked over the Andes from Valparaiso to B. A., and we had an experience with a cougar, or some darn thing, but—"

And Jake Sommerfelt goes on to say that he had an experience once that scared him more than Cape Horn, or cougars, or German torpedoes ever could. And here, fellow adventurers, is the story.

In April, 1914 Jake was an able seaman on the British three-masted bark Inverlyon, loading wheat at Port Pirie, Australia, and sailing for Queenstown for orders. One of the crew, a lad named Abernathy, became ill during the trip, and it was not until the Inverlyon was three weeks at sea that it was learned that Abernathy had typhoid fever.

There was quite a scare on the Inverlyon. Two or three men deserted at Queenstown, and among the men taken on in their places was a fellow named Hank, a silent, morose individual, who hated everybody, but in particular hated Jake because he was a "Yank," and Jake's bosom pal, Minjares, because he was a Mexican. He picked on Jake and there was a fight.

The orders at Queenstown were to sail round the Horn for Buenos Aires. A fine wind took them scuttling past the tip of New Zealand, and they were casting down for the Horn when one of the new men began to complain of headaches. In two days he was delirious. In four, he died.

They dumped a bucket full of Condy's fluid in the water tank and boiled the water before they drank it, but it still didn't seem to do much good. Every day brought a new crop of men with headaches.

Hank was still the morose, bullying grouch he had always been. He never forgot his grouch, and he picked on Jake whenever he got a chance.

They rounded the Horn in 33 days, which, as Jake says, is "not bad for a floating submarine." By that time five men were dead, 14 in the hospital and nine able bodied men left to run the ship. They let out their canvas and headed for Buenos Aires.

East of Buenos Aires they caught head winds and decided to run for Rio. One by one the men dropped off, till there were only three able bodied men left in the forecastle—Jake, his arch enemy, Hank, and his bosom pal, Minjares. Then Hank went down with the fever.

They left Hank where he was in the fo'c'sle and went on deck—Jake and Minjares—to take over the watch from the skipper and the steward. It was midnight; there was a stiff breeze blowing, and the Inverlyon was cutting the water, making good time on the home stretch to Rio.

About four in the morning Jake went down to look over the sick men below, and on the way through the fo'c'sle stopped to look Hank over first. Hank was lying flat on his back, muttering, apparently helpless. Jake spoke to him and he called Jake's name. Then Jake bent over him—put his left arm under his shoulder to raise him up. Then, before Jake knew what was happening, he was caught in a death clutch.

Hank's arms wrapped around Jake, throwing him off balance. In another split second he was lying flat on top of Hank, having the life squeezed out of him.

Then out of the corner of his eye he saw something else something that made him gasp and squirm. One of Hank's arms was unfolding now. It was rising above him, and in his hand was a long, wicked-looking sheath knife. Jake gave another gasp—another feeble cry. Then he felt a sharp pain in his elbow. At the same time Hank's hold relaxed and Jake fell back on the floor, half unconscious from the pain in his neck and head.

Those were the most terrible moments of Jake's life. It must have been half an hour before he could summon strength to rise again and go on deck in search of Minjares.

He was still weak from the ordeal three days later when the Inverlyon dropped anchor at Rio with eight dead. Every man left was tired men still on their feet. The terrible days and nights he had spent on that hell-ship didn't affect him at all, but that awful encounter with Hank had taken all the starch out of him.

And about Hank? Jake says: "He survived, and I met him in the war, and he was a totally different man. He had no recollection of our early morning struggle—and he was such a damned nice fellow you would hardly believe a man could change so much.

Tomorrow: "The Bridge That Moves."

DOWLING Vallee Radio GUEST

EDDIE JOINING RUDY ON AIR

Dowling will be doing the guest artist duty (WEEI) this evening when Vallee again visits his 8 to 9 program patronage. Eddie has been prevailed upon by Rudy to tell the peppy "oil can story" by way of selected diversion for the occasion.

"N. F. T."

Also in the Vallee variety hour spotlight, listeners will hear Olga Baclanova, throaty-voiced Russian screen actress. Olga i. slated to sing some songs in her self-styled accented manner. Sammy Byrd, featured player in the current Broadway stage drama, "Tobacco Road," has a sketch labeled "Mountain Whippoorwill" for presentation. Tom Howard takes one more and his fifth consecutive talking turn with his "mike" foil, quick-witted George Sheldon.

FEUD FOLLOWERS

It comes to mind that Walter (Ol' Pappy) Keefe shot himself right out of his own story last week. His high spirited "feud" doings found the "Carstairs clan" flappin' trigger fingers all over the place, with the result that "Ol' Pappy" and his gentry were done up lock, stock and kaboodle, and in double-barrelled fashion.

Loudspeaker patrons have protested vigorously by mail. Now the word is abroad that "Ol' Pappy" may rise out of the pink-grass covered ridge where he fell and renew the "Hatfield-Carstairs" family feud. Meaning tonight (WNAC) between 9 and 9:30 p. m.

Mindful of the Washington's birthday observance tomorrow, Paul Whiteman opens (WEEI) his hour of music making tonight at 10, by turning in a very special arrangement of "You're a Grand Old Flag," the good old George M. Cohan gem.

HUB HIGHLIGHT

There's local holiday manifestation as well. It's the weekly "Gems of Melody" setting that goes out across America this evening (WBZ) from Boston as of 7:15, under Alexander Thiede direction. Symphonic melody by 35 musicians will get under way with the celebrated "March Millitaire" by Schubert.

There seems to be some sort of a "mysterious violinist" complex in evidence among musical-drama program planners. Otto Harbach is using the "thwarted genius" thought for his Monday night plot theme, as are the "Showboat" directors. Thus we have "Carlo" and "Rondelli" established as disillusioned fiddlers attempting to tug at earcupper heartstrings. Actually, there are listeners by the score considering it decidedly ineffective as air audience sympathy bait. Mushy material is so monotenous!

Radio Questions, Answers

Q—Are the "Easy Aces" people really man and wife?

A—Yes, they are Mr. and Mrs. Goodman Ace, and Goodman stepped into radio prominence from a newspaper staff position in Indianapolis.

Q—Please inform me if Jean Maxwell, who does comedy sketches on "The Evening Tattler" half hour each evening over WEEI, is heard on any other program.

E. T. M., of Dorchester.

A—Occasionally Jean plays in other dramatic programs, but those are scarce in Boston at best. However, her services are sought when local air dramatics take shape.

Q—Is it true that Edwin C. Hill has accepted a moving picture offer and is headed for Hollywood? What is the film?

H. T. S., of Hyde Park.

A—No word to that effect is current, although he is as you may know, now doing the "Globe Trotter" voice for the Hearst-Metrotone News Reel on the screen.

Q—You said in your column that Amelia Earhart would soon do a series of sketches about her flying career. When will she do this and where can we hear her?

Flying High, of Cambridge.

A—Amelia is to appear with the "Red Davis" program during the week of March 11 and it comes through WBZ on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings at 7:30 p. m.

Q—Why do we not hear the Jaysnoff Sisters two piano team over WBZ channels at present? Where do they come from?

P. R. B., of Belmont.

A—The girls are doing a short concert tour in New York and New Jersey at present but will return in about three weeks or a month. They are originally from Russia, but now reside in Brookline.

Not Enough

Army Far Behind Schedule

FROM the appropriations committee of the House of Representatives has come a War Department supply bill to provide $378,699,488 for the army.

This sum is $672,205 more than the budget recommendation and would give the army next year $50,000,000 more for all purposes than it has had during the current year.

It is evident, however, that the bill provides insufficiently toward meeting either the requirements of the National Defense Act or the recommendations of the army general staff.

For example, in the matter of aviation, the proposed appropriations would give the army a total of 1445 airplanes in June, 1936.

But according to the Baker board's report, the MINIMUM peace-time requirement is 2320 PLANES and the War Department is now FOUR YEARS BEHIND in its FIVE-YEAR PROGRAM of airplane construction!

Also, the National Defense Act calls for a regular army of 165,000 enlisted men. The present strength is only 118,750 men.

GENERAL MacARTHUR, the chief of staff, in his recent testimony before the committee, pointed out that this greatly reduced number furnishes only 60,000 combat soldiers, and warned Congress that total enlisted strength of 118,750 was "so low a figure that it is a CONTINUING MENACE to the safety of the country."

Despite this, the House bill, instead of APPROPRIATING for an increase of the enlisted strength, merely AUTHORIZES THE PRESIDENT to make such increase as he sees fit to make.

Finally, increased allowances for the active training of reserve officers, for extending the camp training of reserve officers training corps students, and for an increase in the numbers of civilians attending citizens' military training camps—all required by the National Defense Act and all recommended by the army general staff—are omitted items.

AS the Hearst papers have pointed out, the National Defense Act was passed in its existing form in 1920, as a consequence of our costly and damaging experiences in the World War.

But it has NEVER been carried out.

In 1921 came the budget act—and the practice of the federal budget system has been to starve the national defense instead of developing and sustaining it and effecting necessary economies in the POLITICAL costs of government.

The effect has been to VITIATE THE NATIONAL DEFENSE ACT, which provides for an adequate land defense, while at the same time disarmament schemes and treaties were REDUCING THE NAVY TO THIRD RANK IN THE WORLD.

The Roosevelt administration thus inherited both a weak army and a dwindling navy.

THE pending army supply bill, together with other pending or actual naval and military appropriations or grants, undoubtedly represents the Democratic administration's patriotic policy of making our national defense what it should be —adequate to any emergency.

But it is a job that should be done both THOROUGHLY and EXPEDITIOUSLY.

The army general staff has asked for a total of $450,000,000 in the next fiscal year to "rehabilitate the military establishment."

Pointing out the mathematical impossibility of meeting the army's needs and keeping within the administration's limitation of $378,027,283 for army uses, Chairman Parks, of the House committee, has significantly asked Congress and the administration to consider "whether a larger army spending program is not advisable."

"We are sitting on a volcano at home and abroad," he said. "We cannot blind ourselves to the menace of radicalism within our borders and to war-like foreign activities."

An adequate army, navy and air force and a loyal citizenship trained in the duties of patriotism, are the true safeguards against these perils.

Good Appointment

McSweeney Has Executive Ability

In Eugene M. McSweeney, the Governor has named a civilian to the Boston police commissionership.

By his action, Governor Curley has signified his agreement with this newspaper's opinion, expressed yesterday, that whether the new commissioner is a civilian or a policeman is unimportant so long as he is able and honest.

Mr. McSweeney, we believe, will be an able and an honest commissioner.

He has executive ability, proved in private business and in his only previous public office as commissioner of the Boston fire department.

If he can divorce the police department from politics, and charge it with the high courage and high morale it so sorely needs, he will have the sincere thanks of every good citizen.

The Boston Evening American wishes him well.

Old New England

Under the Sea

Harvard researches into the dim past aren't all confined to excavations in foreign lands.

Harland P. Billings, assistant professor of structural geology, recently announced an important discovery right here in New England.

Fossil shellfish discovered by him at Littleton, N. H., indicate the "Old Man of the Mountain" region was under the sea 50,000,000 to 100,000,000 years longer than previously believed.

Gleaning of prehistoric facts like these has a practical side.

New Englanders should thank Harvard for the work, since it is sure to mean many added tourist dollars for this section.

Reports of information bureaus throughout our several states show tourists display keen interest in historical facts.

Time to Get a Bigger and Better One!

Listen, World!

By Elsie Robinson

IS LIFE WORTH LIVING?

Is life worth living?

Suppose you're poor, sick, discouraged, can't see a chance ahead — is there any use in fighting on?

Leaving out God and heaven, is there any tangible thing in a common man's life that makes the struggle worth while?

Yes, there is! THE MAN HIMSELF.

Mind you, I don't think that's the only reason. Personally, I believe there's a plan behind this life, a future ahead of it, and a God running the whole show. And I think we're all going to get bigger and better breaks when we qualify.

Elsie Robinson

WORTH THE SCRAP

But scratch all that if you wish —I STILL BELIEVE THAT WE OURSELVES ARE WORTH THE SCRAP IT TAKES TO KEEP US GOING.

Doesn't matter who you are or what you've done . . . what you believe or don't believe.

In you, yourself, just as you stand, there's enough to make life worth the living, enough of a Plan to justify respect, enough of a God to justify love, enough of a Heaven to justify faith . . . enough of all that's true and brave and beautiful to justify a whole of a scrap to keep it going.

In the darkest days, when I hated everyone, everything, I used to turn to certain words in an old book. The man who wrote them was near to death. He had had an amazing life.

He had known the extreme of power, wealth and popularity. Then of his own will he had chosen poverty and persecution.

He had been cast out, tortured, humiliated, broken by every device that could rack a man mentally or physically. Now the end was near.

How did he feel about it, now that life was almost over and he could let his real feelings even to himself? Was he sorry—or glad?

STILL WORTH WHILE

Suppose he'd guessed wrong and there was no glory waiting—was there anything in the long record that would still make it worth while? There was! He was old and weak, but all the triumph of fiery youth ran in his voice as he cried:

"I have fought a good fight . . . I have finished my course . . . I have kept the faith."

An old man—who was to come down through the centuries as a great saint. But in that instant he was not thinking of Paul the saint.

He was thinking, rather, of freckle-ace, hot-blooded Saul of Tarsus—summing up his painful and perplexing personal life—wondering, as you and I wonder, if his gains had been worth the pains.

And he knew they had! No matter what came, or didn't come, he died triumphant—for he'd played fair with himself.

"I have fought a good fight . . . I have finished my course . . . I have kept the faith."

Leaving God out of it (though he didn't; he had fought a good fight BY HIMSELF . . . he had finished the course FOR HIMSELF . . . he had kept faith WITH HIMSELF.

These things he had done to satisfy his own self-respect, God or no God, he'd have been bitterly ashamed if he hadn't done them. God or no God, he was passionately proud because he had.

Heaven afterwards? Maybe so. Maybe not. But even if a man only saw things through in order to stay square with himself, that alone was cause enough, reward enough!

"I HAVE FOUGHT A GOOD FIGHT . . . I HAVE KEPT THE FAITH—"

If each night I can say that, the day, for me, has been worth while. If at the end I can know that, nothing else will matter.

And if that isn't a big enough Incentive to keep a going, stranger, then a thousand creeds wouldn't save you. For if you won't go straight to keep square with yourself, you're mighty little use to either God or the Devil.

Stars and Stripes

Already Boulder Dam Lake is more than 25 miles long, and at present prices of lakes is now worth the $250,000,000 it cost us.

Pity the poor New York penthouser during an elevator strike. He's a victim of the high cost of lifting.

The American Chemical Society is told that if a chemist toils for 67,200 years, he may be able to produce dyes for 50,000,000 colors, but that's too long to have to chase a rainbow.

Don't forget that you can't recognize by his whiskers a Bolshevist who has shaved.

Congress is being called the "champion monkey-wrench thrower." One branch certainly threw a monkey-wrench into the plan to snare us in the World Court.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

O. O. McIntyre

His rich, socially prominent wife, the former Mrs. Astor, in her sub rosa coup aboard ship to win back the straying pugilist convinces movie executives Fiermonte may have the stuff. That is the pulse pumping pit-a-pat that vanished when his fellow Italian, Valentino, died. Always they hunt another Valentino.

The build-up for Fiermonte fits a favorite cinema word—colossal. Feature writers, describing him, ran the alphabetical gamut from Apollonesque to zippy. It has been learned, too, that during his honeymoon at Palm Beach his bride packed him off abruptly because of the collective ga-ga as he strolled the beach.

During his stay in New York before sailing he had begun to block the sidewalk when he stepped from an automobile. And at several first nights diverted interest from the stage. Although slight in stature, he is well moulded and his eyes reveal that slumberous something. So he may be the guy.

A reporter, by the way, came upon another pugilist the other day in Harlem who is not so fortunate as Fiermonte. He is Sam Langford, once a black terror of the ring, now stone blind and living on the scant charity of the bars and lunchrooms. He whipped 138 fighters in his time, including Harry Willis and Joe Gans. The reporter called when he heard Langford was being evicted for rent of a forlorn, cheerless back room. He was without a single penny. Alone—staring into his eternal night.

Nearly every bon vivant from Paul Morand to Nathan has chanted praises of Sonetta. Yet it continues to resist entreaties to move out of a slum neighborhood in tumbled Mulberry street. There it opened and there its owner, Angelo Moneta, declares it will stay. An educated palate, he says, never balks at distance. People are crossing the ocean constantly for the sole purpose of dining. Papa Moneta is not so interested in the younger trade, and it rarely crosses his ancient hollowed steps. He believes with Brillat-Savarin that no man can become a gourmet before 40. And that the most astute appraisers of expert cuisine are 60 or better.

Too, there's that Armenian place, Arakel's, on a serene reach of lower Lexington avenue, just as it was 20 years ago when Flora Zabelle used to drop in with fellow players for an after theater bite. Once in awhile Judge Seabury dines there. Also Konrad Bercovici. Arakel's is rarely crowded and its price list has never changed.

A dollar entree would be unthinkable. Sometimes in a far corner a group of withered old men with wide eyes—widened by the terror of many massacres in their native land—sit puffing through a bubbly narghile. The place has the poetic leisure of the fortunate restaurant that is never "discovered." Not many are left.

Broadway is wagging a dubious head over the dizzy acrobatics of Rae Dooley in a current revue. As an anti-climax of knock-about allez-oop she becomes the comic top mounter of a troup of Arabs, teetering so precariously insurance companies are reported to have canceled accident policies.

Broadway remembers the fate of her three acrobatic brothers—Johnny, William and Gordon—each of whom was cut down in the prime of life and within a year or so of each other from post-tonsorem showed, taking such terrific falls.

Thingumabobs: Pola Negri has become a sudden rage in Berlin . . . Mrs. Damon Runyon is now a licensed aviatrix . . . Helen Morgan likes a dash of brandy in her morning coffee . . . Dean Carl Ackerman often gets up in the night to cover big news stories just for the fun of it. . . . The old fire engine horse lustnot . . . Bill Corum, Boonville, Mo.'s pride, hasn't yet "got shet" of his pocket comb in the big city . . . Lucius Beebe's latest shirt patterns are so largely checked it may take two men to wear them . . . Channing Pollock, who used to be one, says a critic is a legless man who teaches running.

Ominous beginning to a letter from a fellow scribe: "This may be my last living communication, since I'm headed for a costume ball and will probably be found at the bottom of a Waldorf laundry chute in the morning."

Mill Girl Wins Fame

Human Side of a News

By Edwin C. Hill

THE GLOBE TROTTER OF HEARST METROTONE NEWS

Grace Fields, the mill girl from Lancashire, is a tall young woman who amuses the British by turning cartwheels and kicking over her head while singing the whimsical and sentimental songs of the slums and the genteel poor.

Edwin C. Hill

I saw her a few years ago at the Palace in New York, and if you can imagine Vesta Victoria doing her famous "Waiting at the Church" with the gestures and antics of Fannie Brice, then you have a good idea of Gracie's act.

She has been an amazing success since the day when at the age of sixteen she played at the mill-workers' co-operative hall in the Borough of Rochdale.

Hers was a dizzy rise in a decade from a place before a factory loom to command performances before the King and Queen, to the sale of five million of her phonograph records and now to a salary of $750,000 for one year's work in motion pictures.

$750,000 A YEAR

Three-quarters of a million dollars a year is big money. It's more than the annuity which George V and Queen Mary receive. It is the highest contract ever offered a stage or film star in England and it is right up with the best at Hollywood.

Miss Fields, like most great artistes, finds inspiration among her own people and her own early surroundings. Her songs, her humor and her personality are inseparable from her beloved Lancashire.

Her art is steeped in the shawls and the clogs of her native county. She sings of tis bfa in 'Stop and Shop at the Co-op Shop" and other such ditties.

Speaking of gigantic salaries, it is interesting to remember that a clause somewhere in the NRA provides a fine of $10,000 for unreasonably high salaries for our own film stars.

At the time it was enacted in 1933, President Roosevelt was concerned with the enormous sums reported being paid to the stars in the land of King Klieg.

Wherefore the producers agreed "to avoid the payment of sums unreasonably in excess of the fair value of personal services which results in unfair and destructive competition."

This clause, in existence a year, has had very little effect. Naturally, the performers fight it tooth and nail, and not all the producers have favored it. Samuel Goldwyn's comment was:

"I'd rather pay an artist $250,000 if he earned it than $2000 if he did not."

Therefore, Mr. Goldwyn keeps on paying Greta Garbo about $225,000 for forty weeks' work. Norma Shearer, Wallace Beery, are others rated above the $200,000 mark.

One gets a good idea of what a $200,000 salary means when it is reduced to terms of box-office admissions.

Simple multiplication and division prove that ten million persons must pay that average 20 cents at the box office to make up the $225,000 which a Garbo gets for making the picture they see.

The Actors' Guild, of which Eddie Cantor is president, has its own side of the story.

Eddie insists that a price cannot be set on creative talent, and he points out that the average life of a star is short and precarious at all times.

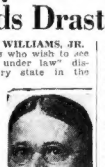
Jury System in Many Cities Needs Drastic Changes

By JAMES T. WILLIAMS, JR.

All Americans who wish to see "equal justice under law" dispensed in every state in the Union should strive to overhaul our jury system. Indeed it must be overhauled if the spirit of justice, which originated it, is to quicken the administration of criminal justice in this country.



Roscoe Pound

In most of the states of the Union today trial by jury too frequently degenerates into ordeal by guess-work. Then a trial often becomes a free-for-all between opposing counsel in which all the methods of the circus trade are given free rein with the jury ready to decide on querks of fact and law without the aid which every jury is entitled to receive from an honest, fearless and learned judge.

FUNCTION OF JURY

The proper function of the jury, under the American system of government, is to rule on the truth of the fact alleged during the trial.

The jury's job is to decide what happened, and then to return a verdict on the indictment in accord with their decision as to the truth of the facts of the case.

One of the greatest handicaps under which the cause of justice in this country suffers today is the denial in most states to the judge of the authority to give the jury the benefit of his expert knowledge when he delivers the charge.

In all except a few states the judge is limited to explaining skeleton outlines of law in relation to more or less abstract questions of fact. The application of these principles of the case under trial not infrequently goes over the head of the jury.

COMMISSION'S IDEAS

The lack of legal training of the average juryman leaves the jury wallowing in a morass of tangled contradictory allegations.

The way to end this travesty of justice lies straight before the legislatures of the several states which do not have the common law as their legal basis.

These legislatures should unshackle the judges of their respective states and free their hands to assist the jury in coming to a clear understanding of the pertinent facts involved.

One of the outstanding recommendations of the able commission which investigated crime and the Administration of criminal justice in 1931 was that the judges in all the states be emancipated from legal restrictions which render them powerless to aid the jury in arriving at a just verdict.

This commission, of which George W. Wickersham of New York was chairman and Newton D. Baker of Ohio and Roscoe Pound, Dean of the Harvard law school, were among the distinguished members, had this to say as to judge and jury:

"EFFICIENCY of trials requires that the judge have the authority to give direction to the task of the jury, instead of leaving them to be diverted from crucial point and confusion as to their duties by unchecked zeal of counsel . . . Success of a trial means the attaining of a right result by a verdict in accord with the evidence and the law.

ADOPT THIS BILL

"A form of jury trial in criminal cases which excludes the judge from aiding the jury in reaching a correct result must fail in this attainment . . . we recommend restoration of the common law powers of trial judges wherever these powers have been restricted by legislation, and exercise of these powers wherever they have fallen into abeyance."

When the State legislatures, which have not yet liberated their judges to aid the jury in dispensing "equal justice under law" by arriving at just verdicts, adopt this recommendation this will be a safer and therefore a happier country for the law-abiding to live in.
